U. S. Department of Agriculture,)
Weather Bureau, Toledo, O., July 15, '92.)

The low area of pressure which was central over the Dakotas has advanced to the eastward and is now central over the western extremity of Lake Superior. It will continue its eastward movement and pass out over the Gulf of St. Lawrence during the day. An area of high pressure has advanced from the extreme northwest and is central over the Dakotas; it has caused clearing weather over the entire west and northwest, and as it advances eastward it will dominate the weather of the eastern states during the next 48 hours.

During the past 24 hours rains have been reported from Wyoming, North Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Michigan, Tennessee and Ontario. Rains have been light with the exception of Des Moines, which reports 1.16 inches.

The temperature has fallen from 5 to 15 degrees over the west and northwest; risen from 5 to 10 degrees over the lake region, and remained about stationary in all other sections.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity for next 36 hours—Fair, continued warm.

NEARLY A LYNCHING.

Chicago, July 15.—Harry Alkire, a painter, was shot and instantly killed in the town of Lyons, 12 miles from this city, this morning, by Fred Hahn, a coachman employed in Riverside, a neighboring suburb. Friends of the victim pursued the murderer to Riverside where he gave himself up to Marshal Long. The marshal grew alarmed for the safety of his voluntary prisoner and an immediate trial was held, Hahn being held to the criminal court without bail. The prisoner was then brought to this city and placed in jail. It is supposed that the men quarrelled yesterday, and that Hahn was lying account.
in wait for his victim on that account.

GAY YOUNG CLERKS.

London, July 15.—Lunt and Wilson, the clerks who organized an alleged syndicate for speculation in cotton, and victimized a number of firms, including the old and prominent house of Isaac Cooke & Sons, have been committed on charges of embezzlement and forgery. Wilson has made a full confession in writing.

The above is the list of indictments found by the grand jury against members of the common council for alleged violation of duty.

It was generally known around the court house early in the afternoon that seven indictments had been found, and all but one of the seven members indicted were known.

The jurors had been in recess for two or three hours prior to the appearance of Judge Harmon, and some of them wandered aimlessly around the court house.

It was 5:25 o'clock when Judge Harmon took his seat on the bench.

The roll call of jurors was followed by the question by Judge Harmon:

"Gentlemen, are you prepared to make a report to the court?"

Foster Warren, chairman, holding a sealed packet in his hand answered:

"We are, your honor, here it is."

"Judge Harmon—"Well, hand it to the clerk."

Mr. Warren stepped over to the clerk's desk and handed him the package.

Judge Harmon—"Anything else gentlemen?"

There was no answer.

"If not," continued his honor, "you are discharged."

The jurors arose and in accordance with previous instructions left the room without saying a word to anyone.

It was in vain that the reporters sought some light.

It is a fact that may be stated here incidentally that the reporters had not only the number, but the names of those indicted as early as 3:30 o'clock.

"How many indictments have been found?" a Bee asked Prosecuting Attorney Barber, when the jury had been discharged.

"I haven't said that there has been any," he laughed. "You will know all about it later."

"When shall we know?"

"Probably to-morrow morning, but I cannot tell you anything more just now."

The reporters had gathered in front of the judge's desk and were buzzing Assistant Prosecutor Sumner.

"I cannot tell you a thing," he said in response to inquiries.

"I'm willing to bet a box of cigars that this list is correct," said a Bee, handing him the list of names that heads this article.

Mr. Sumner read it, laughed softly and handed it back, saying: "I'm not saying a word." Judge Harmon at this point descended from his seat and addressing the reporters, said:

"Well, boys, you are not getting much news, are you?"

"No, not much. We have got all the news necessary, but we want it verified. How many names have the jury reported?"

"Well, I should say they had a full hand," he laughingly replied.

"You can go him one better on that, Mr. Sumner, can you not?" a Bee inquired.

Mr. Sumner laughed, but was mum.

"Yes, I should say he could just go me two better," Judge Harmon said.

"That would make seven. We could have told you that at 3 o'clock. Are these the names?" handing him the list.

Judge Harmon read the list carefully over, and handing it back, said:

"Indeed, I don't know what the names are. You will know probably to-morrow."

In the meantime the report had been conveyed to the clerk's office, where the necessary documents were made for the prompt arrest of the parties indicted.

The Warrants Issued.

Shortly before 6 o'clock the warrants were placed in the hands of Sheriff Stuart, who, with Deputies Tual and Horner, started out after their men.

They had just left the building when Councilman Nuendorf walked quietly into the sheriff's office on his own account. He looked around a little, saying nothing, and finally asked for the sheriff.

"The sheriff is out, but never mind, I know what you are after, Mr. Nuendorf, and can fix you out," said Charley Prue.

Mr. Neuendorf evidently expected matters would turn out as they did, as he had arranged for his bondsman the previous afternoon. W. F. Brenzinger went on his bond. Mr. Neuendorf didn't look disconcerted, but appeared as if the matter had dawned on him gradually, giving him time to reflect and collect himself. Some of the others did not take it as coolly.

At 6:30 o'clock Councilman John Daly stepped into County Clerk Bronson's office in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Tual. The deputy had found him at his home. When told that he was wanted, Daly said:

"All right, Charley, we'll take a car and go right along." He sent a boy to tell his brother to come to the court house and go on his bond.

Daly looked rather down-hearted as he sat in the clerk's office. For a long time he would say nothing, but pulled his mustache first one side and then the other, and then changed the movement by drumming on his hat with his fingers. Evidently he was nervous. The reporters in the office talked about Put-in-Bay, Hotel Victory and Madam De Vere, at times addressing Mr. Daly, who conversed in monosyllables and immediately lapsed into silence again.

In the course of half an hour or so his brother, Thomas Daly, appeared and went on his bond and they walked out together.

There was a lull until 7:30 o'clock, when Councilman Frank Tanner pounced in, bright and cherry, his face wreated in smiles.

"How are you, boys?" he said as he shook hands with those present.

"Who have you to go on your bond?" said Clerk Bronson, turning in his chair.

"I don't just know," replied Tanner, "there are about four hundred anxious to go on."

"Well, who do you have to offer?"

"These gentlemen, if they will do," said Mr. Tanner, pointing to his brother, Geo. F. Tanner, and Julius F. Frederick. Evidently they would do, as they were motioned to sign the bond, which they did. Councilman Tanner seemed to be in excellent spirits. He cracked a few jokes, and then left to attend the council meeting.

Councilman Benjamin O. Manchester came in in a crestfallen manner with Deputy Sheriff Horner. He asked the sheril if all who had been arrested had furnished bail.

"Yes," was the answer.

"I have no bondsmen with me," said Mr. Manchester.

"If you can't get them," said the sheriff, "you'll have to be detained. You have the use of the telephone; you had better call somebody up."

At this point Mr. Tanner came in again, and seeing Manchester's predicament, said he would send his brother after somebody. He told Manchester not to worry, it would be all right.

"Sit down," said the sheriff, handing out a chair.

"All right," replied Manchester, taking the proffered seat. "I don't come here very often." Mr. Manchester waited a number of hours and nobody came to bail him out. He talked a little and mused a little, sitting on the window sill looking out into the night, where he probably found force for meditation. In his talkative moments he said to a reporter:

"If you want to make a statement you can bet your last dollar I'm innocent. The grand jury hears only one side. If I could have been before them I wouldn't be here now."

"When did you first hear of this matter, Mr. Manchester?"

"Not until 7 o'clock this evening. I had no idea that I would be arrested. Of course I knew that there were rumors, but I didn't think they would amount to anything."

During the conversation Mr. Manchester said that he was an attorney, but not in Ohio. He would like to defend himself if they would let him. Time dragged on until it was nearly 11 o'clock. The sheriff had told Mr. Manchester that he would not wait after 10 o'clock for him, but the councilman was so sure that his bondsmen would come that the sheriff extended the time.

Finally a friend of Mr. Manchester went to the 'phone, saying he would get somebody. He made his connection, and the following one-sided conversation, as is the case with telephones, ensued:

"Hello!"

"———."

"Is that you, W. I. Squire?"

"———."

"There is a gentleman in the sheriff's office who would like to see you very much."

"———?"

"Mr. Manchester. He has failed to get anyone to go on his bond, and don't want to stay here all night."

"———!!!"

"Won't you come down, Mr. Squire?"

"———!!!"

"What's that? You will? You'll be right down? All right."

They waited a long time, and Mr. Squire didn't show up. Finally, as the hour of midnight drew on J. H. Botefuhr and Erle Manchester went on the bond.

Some one spoke to Mr. Manchester regarding the rumor that one of the witnesses had been threatened by one of the councilmen.

"Well, it's enough to make anybody boil over," was the answer. "This is an awful thing to happen to a man when he has done no wrong."

As Mr. Manchester was leaving some one addressed him, saying:

"Good bye, Benjamin. By the way, Benjamin is a good old name."

"Yes," said the disappearing councilman. "Benjamin once sat on the right hand, but now he seems to be on the left."

Councilman Swain was all broken up when arrested. At the court house James Winans went on his bond.

The deputy had a hard time finding Councilman Gill, and it was along about midnight when he was brought in.

Approaching Mr. Bronson, he said: "If I had any guilt on my mind I'd have skipped out long ago. I want to tell you all one thing, there'll be more than this mosquito net stenographer story in a few days. There's trouble ahead."

He wound up his remarks by saying that any man who goes into the common council ought to be sent to the penitentiary anyway.

Joseph Munch went on Mr. Gill's bond.

The deputies were out after Mr. Doner, the only one who had not been found. They had been looking for him some five hours without success. Along about 11 o'clock the sheriff said he had heard that Doner had lit out, going to St. Marys.

Little knots of interested people gathered in the halls of the old court house and discussed the affair all evening. As a prisoner was brought in there was a general rush to see how he took his dose, and then the spectators gathered in knots again and talked on until the next victim arrived. It was a busy night for Sheriff Stuart and his deputies, and the prospects of hunting for Doner until morning was not a most pleasant one.

Mr. Doner Gives Bail.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon Councilman Doner's mother accompanied by a young man, called at the sheriff's office and requested Sheriff Stuart to go on her son's bond. Sheriff Stuart informed her that he could not go on her son's bond, and that a bond could not be issued or accepted unless the person in whose behalf it was issued was present. He also informed the lady that the sooner her son gave himself up the better.

At 20 minutes of 2 Prosecutor Barber walked into the sheriff's office and said that Byron Richie had informed him that Doner would show up within half an hour. The words were scarcely out of his mouth, when Mr. Doner joined his mother, who was seated in the park without.

Mr. Doner was accompanied by Thomas McKinney, and the three walked around into Coutny Clerk Bronson's office. Mr. Bronson was at lunch, and Deputy Prue officiated. Mr. Doner was presented with a copy of the indictment which he read, while Mr. Prue was preparing the bond. On concluding his perusal of the document, the accused signed the bond, followed by that of Mr. McKinney, who went security for $1,000.

Mr. Doner passed jokes with his bondsmen, and apparently was in the best of spirits.

"Mr. Doner, rumors have been flying about that you had skipped out. How do you account for your absence?" queried a Bee of that gentleman.

"Well, I did not run away, neither did I have any such intention. I could not arrange for suitable bail last night, and did not want to go to jail. I have no fear, because I am innocent of the charges made against me, as time will develop."

At the Council Chamber Last Night.

There was an air of suppressed excitement at the council chamber last evening, and the finding of the grand jury was almost the sole topic of conversation, even to the exclusion of the committee business that was on hand for the evening. It was late before any of the committees were called together, and the members spent the early part of the evening on the sidewalk in front of the Masonic temple, and there in little groups the situation was talked over. At intervals a diversion would be created by the appearance of Deputy Sheriffs Tual and Homer, who were looking for several of the indicted men, who had not yet been arrested.

None of the accused were there, and the other members did not hesitate to express themselves in strong terms, and several of them declared their intention of beginning impeachment proceedings, providing other citizens did not take the matter up at once. They declared that they would not work in municipal affairs with men who were under indictment for corruption in the conduct of those very affairs.

Just as the members were starting upstairs to their council chamber Mr. Neuendorf put in an appearance, and soon after Mr. Tanner came in. These two gentlemen participated in the committee business of the evening, but it was very evident that they were under a strain and they declined to talk, further than to say that their side had not yet been presented.

Very little business was transacted by the committees, as none of the members felt like entering into any discussions and the meeting was cut short.

During the committee meetings the two deputy sheriffs appeared two or three times in their search for Messrs. Gill and Doner, but neither of these gentlemen were present, Messrs. Tanner and Neuendorf being the only indicted ones on hand, and they had already furnished bail.

Anxiety as to the Next Step.

The condition of the case against the indicted councilmen and the situation of affairs in municipal circles is rather unsettled to-day, and it is impossible to state what the next step will be. No program has yet been settled upon, but it is the general opinion that something should be done at once, and that city business should not be conducted by men who are under a cloud of suspicion.

Judge Harmon, before whom the cases will be tried, is not anxious to have the matter proceed at once, as he had determined upon taking his mid-summer vacation and was about to adjourn his term of court. Prosecutor Barber is also in about the same situation, and does not see any harm in a short delay.

On the other hand there are a number of other councilmen who do not desire to continue doing business with the men under indictment, and several of them have expressed their wish to commence impeachment proceedings.

City Solicitor Read is of the opinion that the cases should be pushed at once, in order that municipal affairs may not rest under suspicion any longer than possible.

"It is the duty of Judge Harmon," said he to a Bee this morning, "to postpone his vacation and take up these cases at once. It is not right that the business of the city shall go for 90 days in the hands of men under indictment for corruption in connection with that very business. Neither is it justice to other councilmen and city officers, who are obliged to be associated with these men in the council and committee meetings. There are many men in the council boards who are honest and above suspicion, and they feel this situation keenly. In fact, last night several of them requested me to draw up affidavits to commence impeachment proceedings, and this morning they were at me again, but I counseled them to wait a day until the common pleas court has decided upon its program.

"In order to impeach city officials," continued Mr. Read, "it is necessary for an elector to file in the probate court an affidavit, indorsed and approved by four other electors, setting forth the charges against the officer or officers that it is desired to impeach. The court shall then serve notice of the same upon the accused and also upon the city solicitor. The latter official shall then at once take up the case the judge will fix a date and the charges will be tried before a jury. If the accused are found guilty they are removed from their seats.

"By this you see that I can not begin the impeachment, but I am ready to take up the case just as soon as five men go into the probate court and file the charges. And from what several men have said to me I think that these charges will be filed very soon."

Prosecutor Barber had a conference regarding the matter with Mr. Read this morning. The prosecutor was anxious that the solicitor should not begin the impeachment case before the criminal trial in the common pleas court as there are many points involved that he does not want brought out until the criminal trial.

Mr. Read, however, was firm in his position that it was not right for the city business to be in the hands of these men, and he stated emphatically that if Judge Harmon adjourned his court for a vacation, the impeachment case would be heard first before the probate court.

Judge Harmon, Prosecutor Barber and City Solicitor Read are holding another conference on the subject and some plan of action will be fixed upon in which all parties concerned can concur.

The Law in the Matter.

Section 6900, revised statues of Ohio, covering the matter of boodle officials, is as follows:

Whoever corruplty gives, promises or offers to any member or officer of the general assembly or of either house thereof, or to any state, judicial or other officer, or any public trustee or any agent or employe of the state or of such officre or trustee, either before or after his election, qualification, appointment or employment, any valuable thing or corruptly offers or promises to do any act beneficial to any such person to influence him with respect to his official duty, or to influence his action in any matter pending or that might legally come before him, and whoever being a member of the legislature or a state or other officer or public trustee or agent or employe of the state or of such officer or trustee either before or after his election, qualification, appointment or employment solicits or accepts any such valuable or beneficial thing to influence him with respect to his official duty, or to influence his action, vote or opinion or judgment in any matter pending that might legally come before him shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than five years or fined more than $500 or both. A person convicted under this section is disqualified from holding any public office or appointment under this state, and if not a state officer shall be removed from office or employment by order of the court.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Judge Harmon adjourned court until next Tuesday morning, when Judge Lemmon and himself would occupy the bench and hear preliminary statement of counsel and endeavor to agree on a satisfactory arrangement.

What the Mayor Has to Say.

A Bee conversed with Mayor Emmick this morning, and he talked freely as to what course he thought ought to be pursued.

"It is not my purpose to express an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the indicted councilmen," said the mayor, "but these men owe a duty to the city that they should observe. While their votes on any measure might not in law invalidate the same, yet it is easy to see how it may induce much litigation and consequent loss to the city. The proper thing for these gentlemen to do is to resign and await their trial for vindication, when their constituents will be glad to endorse them with re-election should it be found that they are guiltless. There is nothing to be gained by them in remaining in the council, while the city has possibly a great deal to lose. Besides they will be constantly referred to in not very pleasant terms. On the whole, the best course for them to pursue in my judgment, is as I have already said, to resign and bide their time.

The Bond.

The public may be interested in knowing the nature of the bail furnished by the indicted councilmen. It is a "day-to-day" bond; that is, a bail bond for $1,000 good for one day, and the accused and this bondsmen must appear at the clerk's office every day to renew this bail, or it is forfeited.

MATTERS AT WHITEHOUSE.

ORME WINS

The Great Eclipse Stakes at Sandown Park.

London, July 15.—The Eclipse stakes at Sandown park were won to-day by the Duke of Westminster's famous 4-year-old bay colt Orme, which has completely recovered from its recent poisoning.

Mr. J. H. Houldsworth's 4-year-old bay colt Orvieto was second and Mr. C. D. Rose's 3-year-old colt, St. Damien, was third.

The Eclipse stakes is 10,000 sovereigns, the second horse to receive 500 sovereigns, the nominator of the winner 500 and the third horse 100 sovereigns out of the stake, for foals and yearlings only to run at three and four years old, Eclipse stakes course about one mile and a quarter.

A LITTLE STRAINED

Is the Situation at Homestead.

Strikers Taunt and Defy the Soldiers.

Strict Guard Kept About the Carnegie Mills.

Many Rumors of all Kinds are Afloat,

And the Men are Watching for Non-Unions—Strikers Locked Out of Carnegie's Other Mills.

Homestead, Pa., July 15.—Relations between the militia and the mill men are becoming strained. At first the troops were regarded as so many fellow workmen temporarily wearing the state uniform and required to preserve order, yet in sympathy with the locked-out employes of the Carnegine mills in their fight against grasping capital, non-union labor and the Pinkertons.

The advisors and leaders of the men told them that the troops were coming as their friends, and when the boys in blue mingled with the townspeople, drank beer with the steel workers and gave them cartridges in exchange for relics of the fight with the Pinkertons this feeling prevailed. But after the first day the lines have gradually been tightened, and strict discipline prevails in the camp and in the town.

The soldiers are under orders not to talk with mill men, and those who cannot show 20 rounds of cartridges have been reprimanded and disciplined.

Last night when picket lines were thrown out around the Carnegie mill and soldiers stood within half a dozen paces of each other along the city farm lane on one side of which is the borough of Homestead and on the other the celebrated stockade which Mr. Frick placed around the mill in good season, the situation was made clear to the men. Those who were halted at the point of the bayonet when they attempted to pass down Eighth avenue in front of the mills became indignant and gangs of mill men began to gather near the mill.

Down along the tracks of the Pittsburg, McKeesport & Youghiogheny railroad, which runs through the Carnegie property, several gangs of men were dispersed by patrol at 2 and 3 o'clock this morning. The special policemen of the borough ordered these men to go to their homes but the men refused and would not move on. The patrol then took the matter in hand and cleared the streets. The mill men had been drinking and indulged in loud talk, defying the military authorities as well as the local police. Right at the corner of the mill property a crowd of excited strikers gathered and blocked the sidewalk nearly all night. They taunted the soldiers whose picket line was not 20 feet away, and refused to go to their homes when asked by their leaders who feared a collision.

The first clash between the civil and the military authorities occurred shortly after midnight. Amos Stewart, the high constable of the borough, was arrested by the patrol and placed in the guard house until morning. He had been drinking too freely and finally became so boisterous that the patrol ordered him to go home. He refused and declared that no brass buttoned militiamen could take him in. He was released at 8 o'clock this morning.

Rumors of the coming of non-union men were current during the night and caused excitement among both soldiers and strikers. Some of the former who were on duty sent telegrams to their families and the advisory committee of the mill men got together at midnight and sent out scouts to intercept the new men. The scouts were directed to use arguments only and to explain the situation and appeal to the men as fellow workmen and ask them, for the sake of the wives and families of Homestead, to remain away. They were instructed to ask the men if they were coming here to take places of mill men because they needed help for themselves. If they replied in the affirmative they were to be offered assistance until they could find work elsewhere.

The river front was watched all night by strikers and reporters, but there was no sign of the men.

The Fifteenth regiment remained on duty this morning and the line of pickets surrounding the mill was not removed. Platoons of provost guard patrolled the streets and pickets were stationed at the depot, along the railroad and at the intersection of the principal streets. The townspeople are getting accustomed to the presence of troops and business is lively at all the stores. The telegraph office and headquarters of the newspaper men are visited by mill men anxious to learn if any news of the approach of non-union men has been received.

OTHERS GO OUT

The Employes of the Upper and Lower Union Mills of the Carnegies at Pittsburg Quit Work.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 15.—The employes in the Upper and Lower Union mills of the Carnegies, in this city, quit work yesterday, and the gas was turned off in the furnaces. By 3 o'clock, in the afternoon the men in all departments were out and the mills were shut down. The men struck because the company refused to confer again with the Homestead men. It is the most remarkable iron strike on record, the firm having signed the Amalgamated scale for the ensuing year. The employes of the Keystone Bridge company are non-union and will not strike unless forced to. Nothing has been heard from the Beaver Falls plant, but the men probably struck there also, as threatened last night.

The men at the Union mills of the Carnegie steel company, at Twenty-ninth and Thirty-third streets, have locked themselves out and they will have to wait till the company unlocks the gates before they will have trsoyatso whicwh|flht4 mfwypp go back. This is the conclusion of the company as expressed by Mr. Lovejoy who said this morning: "If the men who quit yesterday think they can strike and go in and out of our property and go to work and quit when they please, they are very much mistaken. They will not be permitted to go back till the company says so, nor will they go back under the same terms and conditions. They broke the contract they had with us and a new one will have to be made before they can work for us. This is their own doing and having broken the contract we propose to say when and under what terms they shall return.

"If they wait, as they say they will, till we agree to a conference with the Amalgamated men at Homestead they will have a long wait, for such a conference to take place. The mills will remain idle till we get ready to start them, when we will do so. I can state positively that within a week we can get men enough to run full every department of the Union mills, as well as the Homestead plant, and we could do this if we so desired, but but we will not start full. When we get ready we will start enough men to run the mill and give our old men a last opportunity to return to work. We prefer them and they prefer to work for us. I know what I am talking about when I say two thirds of our Homestead men will return to work when we get ready. We will post no notices, as we had at first intended, but when the proper time comes we will communicate with our old men, and anticipate no trouble in securing at least two-thirds of them.

NOTHING IN IT.

The Carnegies Will Not Remove Their Plant to Chicago.

Pittsburg, July 15.—The statement published this morning that the Carnegie steel company contemplate the removal of their business interests to Chicago and that land has been purchased there to be used for the re-establishment of their plant, is, according to the statement from Secretary Lovejoy to a representative of the United Press, "entirely without foundation."

Messrs. Frick and Lovejoy positively refuse to talk this morning on any subject pertaining to the present situation or their plans for the future.

MUST STAY OUT.

The Latest Strikers Refused Admission to Enter the Pittsburg Mill.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 15.—Around the two union mills notices have been posted forbidding any one to enter the property without permission, and any man who went out yesterday cannot go into the mills unless he gets permission.

In confirmation of the story that arrests of certain of the Homestead strikers will soon occur, it comes from a reliable source that on the morning of July 6 and all during the day detectives were secreted in the mill property armed with kodaks. Snap shots of many of the strikers were taken and especially those who were the leaders and those who had arms.

In reference to this story Mr. Lovejoy said: "There is foundation for such a story, but I cannot go into details. This was done in view of the possible arrest of the strikers as a means of identification. The finding of dynamite there yesterday I believe to be due to the fact that it was left over by a contractor who was building three houses and had to use dynamite to blast for the cellars. I do not believe it was brought there with any design against the mill property."

AT LAKESIDE.

Large Attendance—Interesting Exercises—To-morrow's Program.

Lakeside, O., July 15.—(Special)—The Maccabees have come and gone, their "exertion" did not return until the small hours of the morning, they taking in Catawba island and others.

Rev. B. T. Vincent is here, also Prof. Arthur, and about all the instructors for the encampment.

Last night a splendidstereoptican entertainment was given by Prof. Shipley, of Cincinnati.

Every promise is showing a grand program, full seats and except the grumbler, all well satisfied.

The new C. L. S. C. hall east of Bradley temple, is completed, and adds much to the convenience of classes and gatherings. One of the finest outlooks on the lake is from the cupola of this building.

"The Lakeside Daily," by I. F. Mack & Bro., of Sandusky, is full-fledged and doing well.

Miss Jessie Hershire, of Tiffin, has the kindergarten, and so success is assured.

The swimming school attracts much attention, and with the perfect safety assured in the practice makes it all the more desirable.

A sail boat capsized the other evening and two young men went over in four feet of water, but as they were closing the Baptist Young People's meeting it was supposed to be two students from Granville school of theology, practicing for the coming year. No harm done.

Saturday's program is as follows:

8 a. m., Devotional meeting, auditorium; chorus class, temple; physical culture, hall; delsarte, chapel.

9:30 a. m., Normal class, auditorium; boys' and girls' meeting, temple; kindergarten, hall; elocution, chapel;

11 a. m., Second lecture in the "University Extension" course, by Prof. J. R. Commons, "Wages and Interest."

1:30 p. m., Chorus practice.

2:30 p. m., Lecture with chalk, by R. K. Bryan, esq.

4 p. m., Mothers' and primary teachers' meeting, hall; "Palestine Travels" by Prof. J. Zook, temple.

5 p. m., C. L. S. C. round table, hall.

6:30 p. m., Band concert, park.

7 p. m., Sunday school teachers' meeting led by Rev. Chas. Rhodes.

8 p. m., Lecture (illustrated) "Old Ocean, Our Slave and Master," by Prof. J. B. Demotte, A. M. Ph. D.

FINDLAY NEWS.

Election Supervisors, Divorce Suit and Other Matters.

Findlay, July 15—(Special)—The democratic executive committee have recommended John F. Rankin, of Findlay, and T. B. Gilbert, of Rawson, as deputy supervisors of elections for this county. They will be duly appointed and commissioned at once by the secretary of state.

The Leon base ball club, of this city, has sent in their final incorporation papers to the secretary of of state. Capital stock $2,000. The team will be greatly strengthened.

Frank Burt, a brother-in-law of H. H. Free, of this city, has been nominated by the Prohibitionists of West Virginia as their standard bearer for governor.

Myrtle Cole, a boarder at the Carlin hotel, attempted suicide with morphine. She took an overdose and thus prolonged her life.

The tracklayers of the Findlay, Ft. Wayne & Western road will reach the Mackinaw road this week. This will give the new road another valuable outlet to Toledo and Michigan points. The state line will be reached by September 1st, and Ft. Wayne yet this year.

The divorce suit of B. M. Allen, the postmaster of Rawson, this county, from his wife, will be on before Judge Johnson to-day. Nearly the whole town are subpoenaed as witnesses.

Sol Wahlgamuth, the veteran car driver, over 60 years old, on the Blanchard avenue line, was held up last night by a couple of foot pads in an isolated place near Broad avenue bridge. He succeeded in getting away from them, saving his fare box and watch.

ORDER RESTORED

At the Seat of the Race War.

Leaders of the Negroes Arrested and Over Two Hundred Fire Arms Taken.

Paducah, Ky., July 15.—Quiet has been restored in this city, and there is no fear of further trouble. Over 200 fire arms were seized in the negro quarters yesterday and a number of the leaders of the mob were arrested. At a meeting of the better class of negroes resolutions were adpoted deploring the recent events, and pledges were made to co-operate with the whites in maintaining the peace.

DEATH OF AN AGED LADY.

Concord, Mass., July 15.—The wife of Judge E. Rockwood Hoar died suddenly of heart disease last night. She was 72 years old.

A CARELESS SWITCHMAN

Sends a Crowded Excursion Car Into the Ditch.

Three People Fatally Hurt and Many Injured--The Man Who Caused It Can't be Found.

Evansville, Ind., July 15.—The rear coach of an excursion on the Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis line was wrecked near the city limits at 6:10 last evening. The extent of the damage is not fully known, but at least three deaths will result. The accident was the result of criminal carelessness on the part of an employe of the transfer company, who threw a switch too soon, which caused the rear trucks of the last coach to jump the track. The car ran on the ties for 25 feet and then rolled down the embankment into a ditch, completely overturning. The car was crowded, every seat being taken and the aisle full.

The list of injured persons so far as obtainable is as follows: George Roberts, postmaster at Postonville, Ind., back sprained and severe internal injuries; will die.

Mrs. John Rhoads, Booneville; cut severely in head and breast and back crushed; but slight chances for recovery.

John Creed, Booneville; both legs crushed and internal injuries.

John Baker, Selwin, Ind.; back crushed; cut in head and arms; injured internally.

Christ Zimmerman, Lynnville; leg crushed.

Miss Nora Alexander, Booneville; arms crushed and cut in head.

James McCulloch, Postonville; legs and arms badly crushed.

Elijah West, Postonville, arm crushed.

Armor Sparks, Booneville; cut in head and left arm badly crushed.

J. H. Root, Booneville; arms and body cut severely.

Mrs. J. H. Root, Booneville; cut in head and face and severe crush in breast; may die.

Several other were slightly injured. The transfer man who threw the switch is being searched for but is out of reach. The train was a special, carrying delegates to the republican district convention held here yesterday.

REIGN OF TERROR

Caused by Impudent Bands of Navajo Indians.

Who are Far from Their Reservation, Threatening the Settlers and Destroying Property.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 15.—The Navajos are very few springs or waterways in the threaten the settlers in the western portion of the territory. It seems that there are very few springs or waerways in the vicinity of Manuelito, a small and obscure station on the Atlantic & Pacific railroad near the border of New Mexico and Arizona. The citizens have located their homesteads at the few scattering springs and this is where the trouble comes in.

The last few weeks the weather has been very dry and the Indians have herded in thousands of head of sheep, overrunning the country, tearing down fences, destroying crops and terrifying the people generally in the neighborhood.

As they are grazing hundreds of miles from their reservation they are impudent, their agent does not have the power nor requisite nerve to control them, and serious trouble is looked for if they do not leave the country.

The settlers are armed and so are the redskins and a conflict is hourly expected. The settlers have appealed to the commanding officer at Fort Wingate for protection. The Indians have refused absolutely to leave the country, and are still continuing to destroy the property of the settlers. A reign of terror may be said to exist at Manuelito station.

MORE FLOODS

Along Several Rivers of the South.

The Tombigbee and Warrior Doing Much Damage—People Along the Banks are Suffering.

Mobile, Ala., July 15.—The floods in the Warrior and Tombigbee rivers caused by the recent heavy rains, are unprecedented at this season of the year.

The Warrior river, at Tuscaloosa, is now 56 feet above low water and still rising. The overflow of the lands in cultivation in the valleys of the two rivers is most damaging in results. Each additional rise of a few inches spreads water over hundreds of acres of luxuriant corn and cotton and the result is their total destruction. Some of the largest plantations on the low lands are entirely submerged and the tenants and owners driven out.

There is much destruction and suffering among the tenant class, mostly negro planters, who have been driven from their homes. Governor Jones has issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens of the state in sections not affected by the floods to contribute to the wants of the sufferers.

In response the mayors of the cities have appointed committees to solicit subscriptions. The loss to the planters and farmers in the river bottom lands will aggregate millions in stock, cultivated fields and homes swept away by the waters.

STABBED BY NEGROES.

A Mob [illegible] Out and Threatens to Take the [illegible] from the Officers.

Char[illegible], Va., July 15.—Last evening a [illegible] negroes went to Lewis, a small [illegible] the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad [illegible] this city and raised a row with the [illegible]ator, Charles Doom. While trying to defend himself the negroes stabbed him to death. Several of the negroes were arrested and taken to St. Albans, two miles away, and placed under guard. A vigilant committee was organized and they went in search of the murderers with the avowed determination of lynching them if taken from the officers. Excitement runs high and the result cannot be learned at this hour.

ROBBED A CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR DELEGATE.

New York, July 15.—Lillie and Julia Ward, who were indicted for robbing William F. Powell, a Christian Endeavor delegate, from Indianola, Ia., on the night of July 7, were arraigned before Judge Fitzgerald yesterday. They pleaded guilty and were remanded until next Wednesday for sentence.

Powell has his pocketbook returned to him and he was discharged from custody.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE.

West Somerville, Mass., July 15.—The buildings occupied by Sprague & Hathaway, portrait artists, on Davis square, were burned with their contents last night. Loss $100,000; insurance partial. Sprague & Hathaway did the largest business in their line in this country.

"How do I look?" That depends, madam, upon how you feel. If you're suffering from functional disturbances, irregularities or weaknesses, you're sure to "look it." And Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the remedy. It builds up the system, regulates and promotes the proper functions, and restores health and strength. It's a legitimate medicine, not a beverage; purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and made especially for woman's needs. In the cure of all "female complaints," it's guaranteed to give satisfaction, or the money is refunded. No other medicine for women is sold so. Think of that, when the dealer says something else (which pays him better) is "just as good."

"Times have changed." So have methods. The modern improvements in pills are Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They help Nature, instead of fighting with her. Sick and nervous headache, biliousness, costiveness, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured.

GERMANS PROTEST

Against Closing of the World's Fair on Sunday and the Prohibition of Liquor.

Chicago, July 15.—At a meeting of representatives of forty-eight German societies held last night resolutions were passed protesting against the action of the United States senate in tacking to the loan of $5,000,000 to the world's fair the provisions that the gates must be closed on Sunday and that no liquors should be sold on the grounds.

The meeting was the outcome of the action of the Rheinlanderbund, which issued the invitations. The societies represent at a conservative estimate between 18,000 and 20,000 members, but besides the presidents and delegates of these organizations a number of trades' unions and individual citizens were present so, that the actual number represented will not fall short of 35,000.

THE BAPTIST MEETING.

First Day of Real Business at Detroit.

The Delegates Were Up Early and Will Make a Long Day of It.

Detroit, Mich., July 15.—The delegates to the second International Convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America were up with the lark this morning, and a large number of them participated in the preliminary service of praise and prayer that was held in the rink at half past six o'clock. Three hours later the second day's session of the convention, or in reality the first business meeting, was opened with brief devotional exercises, after which the topics treated upon in the annual report were taken up for discussion. Brief reports were then rendered in behalf of the various state and provincial unions, and the morning session was brought to a close with an address on the "Free Missions of Baptists," by Rev. Dr. Kerr D. Tupper, of Denver.

This afternoon the election of officers will take place, and there will be informal meetings of the state and provincial unions for social greetings and the presentation of special business.

The Sunday closing of the world's fair is scheduled as a special order for the evening session, and Revs. Justin D. Fulton and H. E. Jameson will deliver addresses regarding the position which would be taken by the Baptist denomination on the subject.

A large number of belated delegates from the provinces of Canada, as well as from the southern and eastern states, arrived this morning.

HARRITY FOR CHAIRMAN

Of the National Democratic Committee.

New York, July 15.—The World this morning says: Wm. F. Harrity, of Pennsylvania, has consented to be the chairman of the national democratic committee. If nothing unexpected should happen between now and next Wednesday he will be selected.

ENGLAND'S PRINCE

Will Not Attend Any More County Fairs and Corner Stone Ceremonies.

New York, July 15.—A dispatch from London says: The Prince of Wales is refusing all invitations to participate in the laying of corner stones, in county fairs and similar events, as a result of the fact that he was recently mobbed by a curious crowd at the annual exhibition of the Agricultural society at Warwick.

On this occasion the prince was accompanied by the somewhat noted Lady Brooke, and the latter was considerably annoyed at the action of a woman newspaper writer and artist, who not only made several sketches of her in different positions, but also made a full report of her costume, and those of the ladies accompanying her.

She complained of this to the prince as a lack of common politeness, and as a result the royal party abruptly left the show. It has been semi-officially given out on behalf of the prince that if his expressed wishes that himself and his party be protected cannot be respected he must be compelled to avoid a repetition of such scenes by refusing all invitations.

LONDON'S MILK SUPPLY.

The Cows Are in Bad Shape and the Milk is Poisonous.

London, July 15.—An investigation that has been in progress for several months has developed the fact that the milk supply of London and the large towns is yearly becoming more and more a deadly distributor of sickness among all classes. Fully 30 per cent. of the total number of milking cows in 20 large towns have been found to be afflicted with tuberculosis, and to this fact is attributed the terrible mortality, especially among children, from tubercular diseases, such as diphtheria and diphtheria sore throat, as well as enteric and scarlet fevers.

It is also claimed that much of the milk contains pyrotoxine, a deadly poison discovered some years ago in cheese, and which is most rapid and alarming in its fatal effects, especially in the case of children.

Owing to their large and increasing practice in this community, Drs. France & Ottman, of New York, will make a return visit to your city. Those who have been treated unsuccessfully by other physicians will have an opportunity to consult these eminent specialists. It is a well known fact, and one that appeals to the judgment of every thinking person, that physicians who devote their whole time to the study and investigation of a certain class of diseases, must become better qualified to treat such diseases than those who attempt to treat every ill without giving any special attention to any class of diseases. The doctors have had all the advantages of thorough college training and widespread experience that the most ambitious physician could desire, but by the side of others who have that fitness and nothing more, they stand out pre-eminent. Their cures are remarkable. They are wrought in cases which seem utterly hopeless, and no one, no matter what his malady, should despair until after consulting these eminent physicians. Drs. France & Ottman, formerly of New York, now of The France Medical and Surgical Institute, Columbus, Ohio, by request of many friends and patients, have decided to visit Toledo, Saturday, July 16. Consultation and examination free and strictly confidential in the private parlor of the Burnett House, from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.

SWELL WEDDING

Of a New York Belle to an Officer of the Grenadier Guards.

London, July 15.—The marriage of Miss Bessie French, of New York, and Hon. Herbert Francis Eaton, colonel of the Grenadier Guards, and which took place yesterday, was one of the most brilliant events of the season. The pretty little church of Knightsbridge was filled with representatives of the aristocracy and military men in full uniform.

The New York colony turned out in force. The bridesmaids, all of whom, with one exception, were New York girls, were attired in white muslin gowns of the finest texture, and were preceded up the aisles by ushers in knee breeches and scarlet coats. The bridal costume was one of Worth's most magnificent creations.

CHICAGO RATES

For the World's Fair Dedicatory Exercises This Fall.

Chicago, July 15.—The Columbian passenger committee is holding a lively meeting to-day at its office in the Rookery building over the question of the rates for the world's fair dedicatory ceremonies in October next.

At its last meeting, and which was not largely attended, the committee adopted a rate of a fare and a third from points within a certain distance from Chicago. Against this action, however, the the Alton, Rock Island and Maple Leaf entered protests on the ground that they regarded the rate of one fare for the round trip as about the proper thing. This is strongly opposed by many other lines, and an effort will be made to bring about an agreement on the question at to-day's meeting.

YESTERDAY'S RACES.

Four Thousand People Witness the Sport.

Splendid Event the Result—A Rare Program Arranged for To-morrow — Other Sporting Matters.

A day made to order could not have been more perfect than was yesterday for horse races or human races. Nearly 4,000 people assembled at the driving park, and, with the usual interest, helped to make the day a success. The track was in fair condition, but will be better to-day, when a still larger crowd is expected. The talent was decidedly in it in the three races, and although the contest was great, won in straight heats.

Nyanza won first money in the 2:40 class. She is owned by George H. Ketcham and is a fine mare.

In pacing. Kisset's Pointer, an Indianapolis horse, was first, the time being 2:26 1-2.

Great applauses followed an exhibition mile to road wagon by W. H. Morehouse's bay team, Miss Morehouse and Judge McCory, which made the mile in 2:26 1-2. A yearling colt, owned by John Frash, of Fort Wayne, was exhibited. The colt has been entered for stakes aggregating $40,000, and from appearances is likely to win.

Zillah H., from the Ketcham farm, did not feel inclined to pace yesterday and was hard to manage, it being impossible to get her better than eighth place.

The objects of admiration were Baronstein, owned by Geo. H. Ketcham, and Allie Wilkes, owned by Dr. J. V. Newton. They were the pictures of beauty and health. The races were as follows:

First Race.

Three-year old trotting—2:40 class. Purse, $200.

Nyanza	1	1	1
Silver Sheaf	2	2	3
Caperlee	3	4	2
Senator	4	3	4

Time—3:47 1-4, 2:45, 2:43 3-4.

George Ketcham drove his own mare, Nyanza, and held her in all the way, until coming in to the stretch the second time, when he loosened the reign and she came under the wire a length ahead of Silver Sheaf.

Second Race.

Pacing—2:29 class. Purse, $500.

Kissets Pointer	1	1	1
Gyp	6	3	2
Oscar	7	2	4
Elrick	2	7	5
Bessie H.	3	6	3
Jack the Ripper	5	4	6
Texas Jack	4	5	7
Zillah H.	9	8	8
J. S. A.	8	9	9

Time—2:29 1-2, 2:26 1-2, 2:37.

After four attempts the nine horses got away on the first heat. Kissel's Pointer started with the lead and maintained it most of the time, winning the race without much effort.

Third Race.

Running race—Mile heats, best two in three. Purse, $200.

Baritone	1	1
Uncle Kit	2	2
Miss Kneiffen	3	3

Time—1:53, 1:52.

Baritone was voted a favorite from the start, although Uncle Kit made things exciting on the second coming in to the stretch, following closely upon Baritone's heels. Miss Kneiffen dropped behind before the quarter was reached and could not gain a better position.

On the Grand Stand.

Among the 4,000 spectators at the races yesterday afternoon, were a large number of prominent society people. The ladies were appropriately and elegantly gowned and watched with interest the exciting features of the afternoon. Noticeable upon the grand stand were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zahm, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dakin, Mrs. Knox, Miss Daisy Bullard, Miss Clara Thompson, Miss Anna Gossman, Mrs. Sam Bell, Miss Bell, Dr. and Mrs. Cravens, Mrs. G. Hill, Mrs. Colburn, Mr. and Miss Farrar, Mr. and Mrs. George Leibius, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Hadley, sr., Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Hadley, jr., Mrs. Carrlton Walbridge, Dr. and Mrs. Parmelee, Mrs. Geo. Ketcham, Mr. and Mrs. Will Geroe, Mr. and Mrs. N. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Blass, Mr. and Mrs. S. Grischott, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Yaryan, Miss Grace Childs, Mr. and Miss Morehouse, Messrs. Rathbun Fuller, John Cummings, G. W. Davis, Clare Berdan, D. B. Smith, George Boos, Fred Gibsone, Herman Hahn, Clarence Hastings, Mr. and Miss Deardorf, Mrs. Ernist, Mr. and Mrs. Rundell, Mrs. J. Coghlin, Will Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trowbridge, Roswell Messenger, Miss Dora Messenger, Foster Wilder, Dr. Brigham, J. Meyers, L. K. Parks, W. H. Boos, Mr. Holmes, Miss Maud Johnson, Mrs. Reed and many others.

To-morrow's Races.

The weather remaining pleasant and in-as-much as the banks and many of the stores will close to-morrow afternoon for a half holiday the largest crowd of the season is anticipated. There will be 2:40 and 2:23 trotting events, purse $500.

First Race.

Trotting, 2:40 class, purse $500:

Bell More, ch. m., B. A. Kealer, Northville, Mich.

Morea, b. m., Electioneer, dam by Mambrino Pilot, Geo. H. Ketcham, Toledo, O.

Grace W., b. m., Blackwood Mamb., dam Susy Woodruff, Geo. Wolff, Topeka, Kas.

Magnolia, Haw Patch, dam by Bourbon Chief, jr., Jno. Frash, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Earlmont, by Almont Gift, Ed. G. J. Lauer, Monroe, Mich.

Notes.

The races were a success.

Billy Morhouse's team is a dandy.

George H. Ketcham's Nyanza was a general favorite.

Gen. I. R. Sherwood, of Canton, was shaking hands with his numerous Toledo friends.

The street car facilities were not as good as they might have been on account of a blockade down town.

A better starting judge than R. J. Wheeler could no be found.

The Eighth Ward Browns would like to play the East Toledo Buds Sunday, in place of the Rodgers, who have a game on that date. Please answer in Saturday's Bee if satisfactory. Wm. Mynihen, manager. Game to be played on St. Clair grounds.

TWO STORIES OF JURIES.

How Ohio Judges Treated the Flagrant Verdicts Brought Into Court.

One of the Tucker jurors, who was especially disgusted with what the Cleveland Plain Dealer calls the illogical and warped verdict on which he and 11 others had compromised, told the following story in the criminal court room 10 minutes after the verdict was returned:

Years ago an elderly and brusque jurist from Sandusky used to hold district court here, and on one of his visits a beautiful young woman was tried before him and a jury on a charge of stealing $85 from a man. She was clearly proved guilty, but the jury, impressed by her youth and beauty, found a verdict of not guilty.

"Mr. Clerk," remarked the old judge, "pay the $85 to the prosecuting witness, it having been clearly proved in this court that the defendant stole it from him; and you may also pay these twelve d— fools their fees and let them go."

The story was capped by one concerning another judge in whose court was tried a case on an account. The plaintiff made a clear case that the money was owing, but nevertheless the jury found for the defendant. Turning to the counsel for the plaintiff the judge observed:

"It is, of course, your intention to file a motion for a new trial?"

"It is, your honor."

"Consider it filed. It is granted and this verdict is set aside. Gentlemen of the jury, I'd have you know that in this court it takes thirteen scoundrels to cheat an honest man out of his dues. Report to the clerk and get your pay. You are excused from further service."

IN HER PEW.

She looked up from her pew.
(Why she did, heaven knows!)
But I smiled, wouldn't you?
'Twas the right thing to do,
And, pshaw! nobody knew.
Then I tried hard to pose,
But a look of hers froze
All my blood—and I woo
Her in future—old chappie, when not in her pew.

—Tom Hall, in Life.

WAKE UP.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Languor, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.

FREAKS IN THIEVES.

One Man Steals Bed Clothes, Another a Curtain Pole.

A boarder at Mr. Dunning's, 404 Western avenue, lit out with sheets, blankets and pillows belonging to the house. Detective Nichter found the bed clothes, but the strange man who stole such queer articles was not captured.

Wednesday afternoon a man supposed to be crazy entered the house of Mrs. Mettler on Lower Summit street, picked up a curtain pole, hit the lady on the head with it and escaped with the prize. The lady was not badly hurt.

These two men are probably relatives of the man who stole a carpet from the Burnett house some time ago and the fellow who took 30 feet of heavy chain.

NEW YORK PRESS CLUB.

They Will Have One of the Finest Club Houses in the Country.

New York, July 15.—The members of the New York Press club met at Manhattan Beach last night and after dining and listening to the music of Gilmore's band and the oratory of Chauncey M. Depew, held a business meeting at which it was resolved to carry to a successful issue the project of erecting a home for the club.

Fully 500 guests were present at the dinner which was served in the Manhattan Beach hotel.

Mr. Depew presided and made an address. He spoke enthusiastically of the plan to erect a press club building and offered to be one of a committee of 100 to collect the funds.

Gifts of $1,000 each were announced to have been made by Thomas A. Edison, Robert Bonner, George W. Childs and Dr. Perry, and smaller amounts by many others. The new club house will be erected at North William and Frankfort streets.

REPUBLICAN POWWOW.

Trying to Decide Upon a Chairman for the National Committee.

New York, July 15.—There was a gathering of prominent republicans at the Fifth Avenue hotel to-day in anticipation of the meeting of the republican national executive committee and the republican state committee to-morrow.

Senator Hiscock and Russell Harrison were on hand to look after President Harrison's interests.

There was considerable talk about the chairmanship of the national committee, and it was regarded as a settled thing that the president would name the man and that the executive committee would formally endorse him.

The names of Michener, Spooner, Payne and Sawyer were considerably discussed. It was said that Whitelaw Reid was trying to induce Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, to accept the chairmanship, but that he was not desirous of the position.

STAYING AT HOME.

Canadian Manufacturers Refuse to Exhibit at the Worlds' Fair.

Ottawa, Ont., July 15.—Some difficulty is being experienced by the world's fair commissioners in inducing Canadian manufacturers to exhibit their products at Chicago next year. A number who had previously declined have reconsidered their decision, but many others have positively refused to participate. It is said that the cause of the trouble is not so much the McKinley bill as the hostile attitude assumed of late by President Harrison.

BORUP RETURNED.

New York, July 15.—Capt. A. G. Borup, the American officer who was suspended from his duties with the American legation in Paris pending an investigation of the charge against him of procuring and selling secrets of the French war department to the German and Italian governments, was a passenger on the steamer Aller, which arrived at her dock in Hoboken this morning. COLLISION ON THE RIVER

A Tug Sunk by a Steamer Near Presque Isle.

The Raleigh and the Moore Come Together—The Latter is Sunk and the Crew Dumped in the Briny.

At about 10:30 o'clock this morning a collision between two boats occurred just off Presque Isle that resulted in the sinking of one of them.

The big lake steamer Raleigh, of Detroit, and the tug T. M. Moore, of this city, were out in the lake making for the city. They had just reached the turn near Presque Isle when, through some misunderstanding of the signals, the little tug got under the big steamer's bows.

There was a cracking of timbers, the tug gave a couple of expiring revolutions, and sank beneath the waters of Maumee bay.

It was a narrow escape for the tug's crew. The captain, fireman and engineer were on board when the accident occurred.

Luckily they were uninjured, and after floundering around in the water for a short time they were picked up.

The steamer Raleigh was not damaged much. Had she been loaded instead of light the hole in her side would have been of dangerous proportions. As it was her empty sides gave a little and eased the force of the contact. She came up and and is laying along side the Ohio Central docks.

The tug is right in the channel with only about a foot of her smoke stacks sticking out of the water. She belongs to James Rooney, the dredge man of this city, and was just recently overhauled and painted.

From her position it will be dangerous for boats to pass in and out of the bay at night. They might squeeze through by day. Steps will probably be taken for having her raised immediately.

The Raleigh was formerly owned by Mr. Corrigan, of Cleveland, who sold her to Captains Whipple and Andrews, of Detroit, about a year ago.

The non-Partisan W. C. T. U. will give an excursion to Presque Isle on the steamer Pastime, Tuesday, July 19. boat leaves dock foot of Jefferson street, at 2 p. m. The mothers who attend the non-Partisan "Mothers' Meetings" at the Helping Hand mission are invited to go free of charge. If they will call at Mrs. Farrar's, 913 Madison street, next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, they will receive tickets.

The Major T. C. Overman affair has come to the surface again. District Attorney Brismade, of Cleveland, has received instructions form the department of justice to make a full inquiry into the matter and report to headquarters. Lieut. Judson was seen at his home this morning in regard to the matter and stated that the proceeding was very unusual. Overman resigned June 20.

W. T. Walker is at home from New Mexico, where he has been for the past few months, looking up mining interests in which himself and a son-in-law are interested. Mr. Walker is looking greatly improved in health and is receiving many congratulations on his robust appearance. He speaks in terms of highest praise of the climate of New Mexico.

A GIRL OF SENSE.

"So you're not going to accept Harry De Tompkins, after all, Ethel?" said Ethel's friend, as they sat and sipped their chocolate together.

"No," said Ethel, seriously, "our engagement is off."

"But he is one of our best young men. Rich, handsome and of good family. Are you sure, dear, you are not making a mistake?"

"It would be a mistake to marry him. Of that I am quite satisfied."

"What has he done, Ethel?"

"Broken the fifth commandment, dear."

"The fifth commandment," said her friend, slowly. "Ethel, dear, I cannot tell for my life which one that is."

"It is the one that says 'honor thy father and mother.' I heard Harry talking to his mother one day, and he was both unfilial and disrespectful. I could never marry a man who spoke to his mother as he did."

"You are right," said her friend with a sigh, "but, Ethel, how many girls are there who would have the moral courage to do as you have done?"

"Oh, it isn't easy, but it is better than a lifetime of regret. Do have another cup of chocolate," said Ethel gaily.—Detroit Free Press.

Alexander Guillaume Bulan, of the reputed age of 106 years, committed suicide at Ekaterinoslay, Russia, a short time ago, because as he explained in a letter he left behind, he began to find life insipid and uninteresting as compared with the good old days.

NO LUCK FOR HIM.

The Goddess of Fortune Always Hid Under the Bed When He Was Around.

A tramp stood yesterday at the corner of Park row and Ann street "gazing forgetfully," as the novelists say, into the gutter ahead of him, but looking at nothing in particular, says the New York Advertiser. Presently a boy came along and picked up a dollar bill almost under Ragsby's nose. A smile broke over the boy's face as he smoothed the wrinkles out of his find and made off in the direction of a shooting-cracker store.

The tramp saw the boy stumble upon his piece of good fortune at his very feet and his jaw fell. Looking after the urchin a moment, he exclaimed, with much elocutionary effect: "I call upon all the gods who roost on high Olympus to bear witness that I am the unluckiest cuss in all the whole wide world!"

"What's the matter?" asked the reporter.

"Matter? Here I've been standing for an hour and a half looking right ahead of me into the street, and along comes a boy whistling 'Come Down, Mrs. Flynn,' and picks up a dollar under me very eyes. Now, can you tell me why I didn't find that wealth?"

"I can't."

Well, I can. It is because the Goddess of Mischance ever attends me. I am a child of misfortune. If there is grief lying around I find it, but I couldn't find a nickel if they were as thick in the streets as the leaves that strew the brooks in Valombrosa. I wouldn't mind it if this was the only time the mailed hand of fate had belted me on the jaw, but it is going on all the time. I started out in life on an equal footing with Jay Gould and now look at us! Where is Jay to-day?"

"Mr. Gould certainly is a fortunate man."

"That's it; he's lucky. He's no better equipped by nature to tackle the great financial and economic problems of the day than I am. I can argue the hindsights often him on any question he may elect; but he is luckier than I am. Good luck awaits upon Jay at every turn, while if I happen along the jade hides under the bed."

"Things don't seem to have been coming your way lately, that's a fact," said the reporter as he took a better look at Ragsby's garb.

"They haven't. But look at Gould. Did you ever see such luck? Here a report comes along that he has been stricken with a fatal illness and the next thing you know he is down in Wall street as chipper as a fighting-cock."

"A mere stock-jobbing scheme."

"No; it's Gould's confounded luck," persisted the tramp. "Now, if there was a rumor in financial circles that I had as much as the toothache an investigation would show that I had the yellow fever or the cholera, and couldn't live a minute. That's the way of the world. It's worse for me than it looks, and it's better for the Goulds and Vanderbilts and Rockefellers. Unlucky? It's no name for it. Why, my dear boy, I have visited a county and my presence has started a cattle plague and killed the crops. I can start a financial panic in Wall street any day by simply walking through it. I declined an invitation from Brother Bowen, to go to Woodstock to-day and deliver a Fourth of July oration, for I knew very well if I went either the ice-cream would be poisoned or the whole party of us would be struck by lightning. Give me 10 cents to help me get out to White Plains to the Keeley cure."

FOOD AND WAR.

The world has shaken 'neath the tramp of armed men in every age, but these while differing in all points of equipment, maintained one feature of noticeable uniformity. Egyptian, Greek, Roman, French or American, each warrior pushing forward on his long forced marches, carries over his houlder by some device of convenient strap, a rain-proof bag in which he has stowed his rations for the day, or for more days than one. Wherever there have been armies, or wherever there shall be, to the end of time, there must be this unchangeable item of equipment, for the human stomach was indeed constructed first, and was placed inside of all men, and was hardly placed there before it forced the invention of the haversack.

There are wide regions of Asia and Africa now lying waste or only thinly peopled, which were once dotted with towns and cities, swarming with inhabitants and teeming with industry.

There is hardly any part of Europe from which prosperity and even population has not been at some time wiped away by the hand of war. Many large districts have suffered again and again. All these have, however, been repeopled, and their inhabitants dwell in apparent security in spite of the fact that there are to-day greater armies and manifest preparations for greater wars than any the world has ever yet seen. There is, nevertheless, a general faith that nothing like utter destruction can come again, that the ravages of war would be promptly repaired; and certainly the recovery of France from her utter prostration by Germany appears to justify the view. Something of this rallying power after military conquest may be due to the development of the humaner sentiments; but there is one military fact which outranks all other discoverable causes. It is to be found in the haversack of the modern soldier, and the improved organization for keeping it replenished.

German army reports set forth that their forces suffered severe privations on the mach to Sedan, ascribed to the fact that the French army had just traversed the same route, paying for all supplies in hard cash, while the German quartermaster was provided only with paper vouchers which the French farmers declined to negotiate. The semi-starvation of these divisions of the army was a surprise, for the rest of the army was adequately supplied from its own rear. The famished men were disabled by being severed temporarily from their ample system of food transportation. A hundred years ago the invading army had frequently foraged for its supplies—hence the enormous devastations involved in war.

Nevertheless it was recognized as imprudent to attempt to traverse great distances without making preparatory provision for food supplies. The military food problem was solved in part by military supply stations and magazines as well as by purchases of regulated contributions and assessments; but the soldiers had to eat on the march from one magazine to the other, and had hence to be accompanied by a commissariat, the slow movements of which regulated their own. The wagons were of the clumsiest and heaviest construction; the roads generally cut up or bad. The movement of the food carts consequently regulated the daily march of the food consumers, and their tonnage the actual distance they could move from their last flying base. With well-studied reference to all troop movements, modern Europe has been covered by a great network of military railroads. A large part of these roads is plainly in excess of peace requirements, but is kept in regular use and full occupation that it may be ready for any emergency. All the human force and service of these roads is instructed and drilled as belonging to the quartermaster's department of the several national armies.

England is steadily carrying forward a similar work in India, with proposed and partly constructed connections from and toward the Mediterranean coast, with the Suez canal as an auxiliary. France is pushing her iron tracks deep into Africa by way of Algiers. Russia, besides the railway system relating to her European frontier, is performing wonders by tracklaying in her Asiatic possessions. By means of those already laid, she provisions the forces which have absorbed for her the Tartar Khanates, and those which now threaten Persia, Afghanistan, and British India, and which maintain her perpetual pressure upon the frontier of China.

She may soon complete railway connections which will enable her fleets to transport supplies to Russian armies operating in Japan. It is all a question of the haversack.

When, too, we read of the march of armies numbering hundreds of thousands in ancient times, the question of accuracy can always be tested by an intelligent jury of haversacks. This jury, too, is the only one competent to sit on the question of the population of the great cities of the past. Given their commissariat appliances there is no difficulty in estimating the possible limits of population. With great cities, as with great armies, it is all a question of the haversack.—W. O. Stoddard, in "Food."

"THE FRONTIER LAWYER."

Some Facts on the Way in Which They Rob the Indian.

When a man who has camped with the Indians, trafficked with them, and talked with them in their native tongue tells "the facts in the case," we get different stories from those related by Indian agents and sent out from Washington. Frederic Remington has been one with them in the wild life of the western plains. Of their wrongs and present prospects, he writes in Harper's Weekly:

Not long ago the press dispatches said that shyster lawyers in the Indian territory were making legal raids on the Cheyennes. The Indians now have their lands in severalty, and a new assortment of trouble and care with them. The famine, the small-pox, the pneumonia, the strong-water and the Texas cowboy had nearly done for them; but now the frontier lawyer gets in his talons, and the end is nigh. The Indians did what Indians always do in these latter days, head straight for a United States army officer and pour out their tale of woe. The army officer protests that he can do nothing; but he sets the complaint going "through military channels," and finally it comes plump up against the solid wall of divided authority in Washington, and as a living subject ceases to exist. It is henceforth history—one of the pages of a dead and forgotten past.

Meanwhile the wronged Indian goes back to his tepee and waits. White people try to explain the process of common law to him, and, of course, every one starts in by admitting that he has "gotten the worst of it." The Indian does not submit readily, that being a virtue only developed by the highest evolution of civilization. To the Indian it does not matter whether it is constitutional or unconstitutional. The common law mixes things hopelessly when it subverts his natural rights, and the application of statutes which puts sharp stones in his path simply cap the climax. Then his agent, if he has his ward's interest at heart, does what he can; but civil bureaus do things in such a roundabout, day-after-to-morrow new ruling, red-tape and pigeon-hole way that the relief comes tardily, if at all. What the Indian wants is simply one white man in the whole white race who can say to him, "you can do this," or "you can do that," and who will not habitually lie to him. The agent refers to Washington, and the matter referred is given a decent burial. The white soldier raises his right hand ever so little, speaks short and sharp, and the thing is done. The Indian appreciates the difference, but cannot understand why General Nelson Miles cannot straighten out whatever is crooked in his whole world of woes.

The land-in-severalty scheme is a very good scheme, but under the lax and shiftless civil administration it will open up a new field of trouble for our red brother beside which the predatory cowboy, the whisky-peddler, and the misappropriated beef issue were as nothing. He will now have to deal with the frontier lawyer and the the trafficking person who is "not there for health," and when he encounters their diabolical cunning and matchless imposture, he will come out of the tussel with, it is to be hoped, the primitive fig-leaf at least. The white man's "forever" will grow to a very much shorter time, and he will come to recognize in the law of the land an enemy whose armor he cannot pierce.

The soldier says nothing, but he lives with the Indian, and he thinks what fine soldiers they make and how well we succeed with him when we get a chance. The soldier never tells him what is not so, or promises what he cannot fulfill. When Mr. Lo gets in trouble he appears at headquarters and states his case. When Mr. Lo troubles any one else, the soldier slips a 45 into his Springfield, and subsequently slips it into the hide of Mr. Lo. Both of these proceedings inspire respect in the mind of the Indian, who is by no means a fool, and readily appreciates when he is treated properly and with justice.

The Sioux and Apaches were always more intelligent in their dealings with the white race than any of the other tribes. When too much constitutionality and law and statutes were run in on them by the white men, they just saddled up the big pony and got out their Winchesters and left a smoking waste and heaps of white carrion in their wake. Then the commission which came out to fix the thing up and save an administration an Indian war, approached the subject in a fair and liberal way, and generally did what it said it would.

HOW ACTORS STUDY.

"Few people realize the study that some of our actors and actresses give to their art," said Dr. Amos T. Behrings, of New York, recently. "I was a hospital surgeon during the war and have been frequently consulted by actors required to simulate death by gunshot wounds, sword thrusts, etc.

"Actors required to simulate death by one of the many poisons, or by a particular disease, haunt the hospitals until they have an opportunity to witness what they are to portray upon the stage. Those who do not make these studies frequently amuse the physicians in the audience very much.

"There is a prominent actor now starring in a role wherein he is supposed to receive a gunshot wound in the head that proves fatal 'while you wait;' yet he walks across the stage, retains his consciousness and converses intelligently until he drops back dead.

"I never saw a case of that kind in real life. A prominent actress, who has a habit of pressing her hand over her heart, needs a medical guide-book, as she does not get within eight inches of that vital organ."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Indicted Councilmen.

An indictment by a grand jury is not a conviction of crime. It is well to bear this in mind in discussing the investigation, indictment and arrest of seven councilmen for soliciting bribes. In law a man is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty. The guilt or innocence of the accused will be established by a jury in open court, where both the state and the person shall have equal opportunity of hearing.

The testimony taken by a local stenographer in hiding at the Pluto oil office and presented to the grand jury is very strong as to five of the accused. If the testimony can be established in court the penitentiary doors will swing easily on their hinges for their reception in Columbus. It also might not be difficult to prove the existence of a conspiracy in the council, a strong combine by which much legislation of a financial nature has been hung up for profit-sharing investigation. There is strong presumption of the existence of such a conspiracy, and, whatever comes of this criminal prosecution, it is safe to say many propositions will hereafter receive more respectful and intelligent consideration by the council.

The methods adopted to trap several of the accused councilmen were well planned. It is said the witnesses to verify the stenographer's report are ample and that the developments before the petit jury will be more startling than those already made public. At best it has a bad look, and the voice of the public is strongly condemnatory and for severe punishment. But the accused are yet to have their day in court, and, until that time, as much as possible judgment should be suspended. Give them a chance to meet their accusers. This is due them by the very nature of the case.

But the serious phase of the situation must be considered by citizens. Municipal affairs in Toledo have run with loose ends entirely too long, but perhaps this is to be expected from the multiplicity of boards of management, wholly independent of each other, and in many instances independent and reckless of public opinion. City government has been drifting to just such a pass as is presented from the grand jury room. Accusations of corruption have been common in Toledo for several years. The charges may or may not have been true, but from suspicious circumstances the public has strongly inclined to the affirmative. This very condition suggests the remedy, only to be found in better methods of government. If from the exposure of this disgraceful and humiliating condition better results shall follow, the probing of the grand jury will be vastly helpful to Toledo. From the slough the municipality will arise in purer state.

The Country To-day.

Never before in the history of the country has there been, except in days of war, such a state of internecine disorder as reigns to-day. Thousands of soldiers are camped along the Monongahela to prevent a pitched battle between labor and capital. Idaho, with twenty thousand less population than the city of Toldeo, is in the hands of United States troops for safety to its citizens—another deadly conflict precipitated by locked-out labor, soldiers are under arms in Kentucky to prevent a race war, troops are ready on call in Oklahoma where white settlers declare the vengeance of the rifle if any more negroes are crowded in there for political or other purposes. The newspapers are about as full of war head-lines and dispatches as they were during some of the days of the Rebellion. Besides these deplorable events which are more or less directly the result of bad legislation and desperate politics, an epidemic of crime with fatalities, seems to be raging. Yesterday, officers of the law were shot dead in three states, while attempting to make arrests. It is a fearful state of things in this boasted land of equality and fraternity, of justice, arbitration, and obedience to law. The grandest natural conditions in the world are here for the ideal republic of peace and plenty. It is a time for every man, with a ballot in his hand to stop and consider seriously, the danger, and his duty, in the interest of protection to self and family and the perpetuity of freedom and justice in the land. To preserve the republic in spirit as in letter, in deed as in name, is the first sentiment of every patriot, and he cannot afford to make mistakes in judgment, for every citizen is a part of the ruling power, by virtue of the influence of his ballot. It is a solemn thing too lightly considered. We hear too much of "the mire" and the "dirty pool" of politics. These are the legitimate results. Something is wrong in the governmental management. What is it? That's the question for every voter to answer for himself.

Unnecessary Falsification.

A high-tax organ, which publishes tables of wages paid "in Europe" and in the "United States" and then in summing up and making comments, substitutes "England" for all the protected countries of "Europe," must think its readers are fools. "Newspapers" are using the figures and conclusions found in the latest report of Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor. What's the use, anyway? Hasn't Mr. Frick, the largest em- under oath, that the tariff has nothing to ployer of labor in the country, testified do with the regulation of the wage scale in protected industries? What need to falsify figures to prove what your man-of-the-benefit absolutely denies?

"The tariff is not responsible for the lock-out at Homestead," say the retreating organs in the fight for protection. The tariff has not protected labor and averted the conflict—that is what it is sworn to do and on the strength of this pledge the people voted for it. That is the point. That there are labor strikes in other countries means nothing by comparison only that, under a free government with unbounded resources and unlimited expanse, with laws enacted avowedly in the interest of labor, workingmen are subject to the same conditions and with the same results as those that obtain in monarchies where class rule is recognized, the laborer is a servant of his master and no pretense is made of tax law for his benefit. This is what is clearly proven and it is enough to show that the protection afforded by the republican party laws is emphatically "a fraud" so far as labor is concerned, but an unparalleled success in enriching the employer of labor.

The profits from one plant of the Carnegie company's works—the Edgar Thompson steel company—were, last year, $1,500,000. The other firms in the trust are: Carnegie, Phipps & Co., limited; Allegheny Bessemer Steel company, and the Keystone Bridge company, at the Edgar Thompson furnaces; Duquesne Steel works, Homestead Steel works, Lucy furnaces, Keystone Bridge works, Upper Union mills, Lower Union mills, Beaver Falls mills, Ccotia Ore mines, Larimore Coke works and Youghiogheny Coke works.

If the other firms have paid proportionately well, it would seem that a reduction of 12 per cent. on the wages of 325 men (Mr. Frick's testimony) was hardly imperative.

The New York Sun says, "invariably the rioting and destruction is done by the alien, the lawless and the criminal." Pray and how came the alien, criminal." Pray and how came the alien, the lawless and the criminal to be in the employ of protected Americans? And in defiance of the law? Why are these classes put into the factories when a special tax is levied on the people to the end that the employer may pay laboring Americans living wages? Is it possible the pauper price of their work is the incentive while the employer puts the bonus in his own pocket?

The Allegheny, Pittsburg, and Aberdeen people who have decided to return to Mr. Carnegie his gift fund for the establishment of libraries—or rather, library buildings for Carnegie monuments—in their cities, are wise in their conclusions. These large sums turned back into the Cargenie coffers may avert the "bankrupcty" Mr. Frick talks of, and enable them to forego the 15 per cent. reduction on the wages of 400 men in their employ.

It would seem that by the time the Pinkertons are paid, the account with the state soldiery settled, all damages included and the losses to employers through idle factories computed—a great sum will be represented as the price of enabling the Carnegie firm to take a slice off the wages of a small number of men in their employ. A fraction of the sum involved would have doubled the wage in question.

No great wonder that Washington government officers want the gates at Jackson park closed Sundays. Sunday is the day when they used to go, in picnic parties to the Philadelphia show and have the day and the grounds to themselves free from the common rabble. That six-days-a-work workingmen and women may have no opportunity at all doesn't matter greatly.

Says the Chicago Inter-Ocean, "without Mr. Carnegie there would have been no homes that make Homestead. Without the workingmen of Homestead, who have earned a hundred times over what they have received, where would have been Mr. Carnegie's steel and iron mills—his $40,000,000? That argument is a two-edged sword, and one edge is a deal sharper than the other.

We are told that the Idaho miners who are in revolt, are aliens. Most of the names of the killed and wounded are these: "Smith, Whitney, Wilcox, Putnam, Pettibone, Peterson, Garner, Collins, Campbell, Adams, Abbott, Bean, Hennessey, and Cumming, with Christian names, John, George, Harry, Gus, James, Charles, Hugh and Samuel. Nothing very Hungarian in this showing.

The Buffalo News expresses great satisfaction that such security is felt when the soldiers of state or nation are on the grounds, and argues that everything should be done to augment their strength. The pity and alarm of it all is that we are approaching a condition of society when citizens must depend upon the soldiery for safety to person and property.

President Harrison said very pretty things to the women school teachers, in his address at Saratoga, but he didn't tell them why they were paid less wages than men for the same work or how he thought the wrong could be righted.

If Chicago shall have the nerve to refuse the government appropriation with strings to it, the city will immortalize itself before the world and go down into history with new luster on its already enviable fame.

It is a remarkable fact that the petitions of Christian societies and those of saloon keepers for Sunday closing of the World's Fair, lie side by side on the commissioners' desk.

Senator Quay will not tackle scripture again, even anything so easy as the commandments. He is getting unmercifully guyed for his single attempt and its result.

If Mr. Cleveland would refuse for print the letters he writes about Frances and little Ruth, perhaps it would help against "the notoriety they seek to check."

REID KEEPING STILL.

He Will Not Take an Active Part in the Coming Campaign.

New York, July 15.—The statement made directly after the Minneapolis convention that Hon. Whitelaw Reid would not take any active part in the political campaign is confirmed by the announcement from a member of the family that early next month the republican nominee for the vice-presidency will go to the Adirondacks for a visit that is likely to last until the end of September.

Meanwhile he is spending most of his time at Ophir Farm, his country seat. He has had many invitations to speak in the west, but it is regarded as doubtful whether any single one of them will be accepted.

POSTMASTER IN HOC.

St. Louis, July 15.—Postoffice Inspector Dice yesterday arrested Postmaster Wm. C. Higginbotham, of Huntsville, Mo., on the charge of robbing the mails. The postmaster was caught by means of decoy letters. The amount of money secured is said to be very small.

PRESIDENT DOYLE.

Toledo Honored by the State Bar Association

In the Selection of President and Treasurer.

New Members Elected—Reforms to be Sought Through the Legislature—Most Successful Meeting.

Put-in-Bay, July 15.—(Special.)—At yesterday afternoon's session of the State Bar association the committee on judicial administration and legal reform reported immediately after Judge Baldwin had concluded, recommending with regard to the insolvent law substantially the same as the provisions of the old bankruptcy law, making void all preference to creditors made at any time within three months prior to the failure.

This report and the one on the Australian registration system were received and adopted. The committee was instructed to present both points to the legislature during its next session, and at the earliest convenience of a joint session of the judiciary committee of both houses.

The monthly report of the committee on judicial administration and legal reform was received. The report was next submitted by Judge Maxwell, of Cincinnati, and in sense was in favor of some limitation being placed upon the right of the appeal from the circuit court to the supreme court, and declared against the creation of another commission to work on the accumulation of business on the supreme court docket.

The report, after being amended as to strike out the clause providing for the increasing of the supreme court of Ohio, was received and adopted.

In presenting the report Judge Maxwell said: "I cannot concur in the plan proposed by the committee for the relief of the supreme court. In view of the provision made by the state for the review of all judgments of the court of common pleas in the circuit court, I am of opinion that relief should be sought in limiting the right of appeal from the circuit court to the supreme court, and in permanently increasing the membership of the supreme court to not less than eight.

(The latter clause was stricken out.)

"I am opposed in any event to vesting the functions of a court of last resort in a temporary commission, such as is possible under our constitution."

The special committee on legal education reported in favor of extending the term of study for admission to the bar from two years to three years. This, however, was laid on the table

New Members.

The committee reported the following applicants, which were acted favorably upon: Horace M. Blessing, Washington C. H.; J. C. Douglass, Chillicothe; Dwight E. Sapp, Mt. Vernon; Thomas Cherrington, Ironton; W. H. Phipps, Paulding; Kidder V. Haymaker, Defiance; W. S. Wagner, Tiffin; Fred L. Hay, Defiance; J. F. Bunn, Tiffin; C. A. Seeders, Paulding; G. B. The Garber Law.

The secretary read the following communication submitted by the Association of the Clerks of Court of Common Pleas, the sense of which has already been anticipated in the Bee:

To the Ohio Bar Association:

Gentlemen—We are a committee appointed by the Association of Clerks of Common Pleas Court to memorialize your honorable body, and would most earnestly request you to take some action in behalf of the clerks of the courts of Ohio which may look to the repeal of the 'Garber law," and the re-enactment of the old fee bill, as you are conversant with the duties and expenses of the clerks' offices and know the injustice of the present law.

U. H. HESTER,
HUGH NEAL,
R. F. TIERNAN,

The executive committee met last evening and elected officers. Gen. Asa Jones, chairman, and W. C. Culbertson, secretary. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Hotel Victory, beginning the third Wednesday in July.

The meeting practically closed last evening, the business of to-day being of a miscellaneous nature. Most of the members left for their homes last evening and this morning.

The People Coming In in Good Shape.

Boat loads of people continue to come and go, and declare, to an individual, that they never would have believed such an institution as Hotel Victory could ever be constructed, equipped and managed with such dispatch.

The big hostlery must be inspected personally to gain any kind of an idea of its immense magnitude and extensive views, and hundreds of people come from miles every day to see it.

The lobby, corridors and shady nooks were crowded all day yesterday and today. Guests are continually arriving from the east, to spend the summer. The transient business is immense and promises to be one of the features of the business.

The electric cars are running at regular intervals every day, and the ride is one of the many pleasures of a trip to Put-in-Bay.

Gov. McKinley on the Campaign.

Speaking of the approaching campaign to a Bee, Gov. McKinley said: "Yes, the time is rapidly drawing near when the several political parties will put their armies in the field, and I expect the battles will be many, but then some one must be defeated, and after we'll all live together in peace, just the same. I will make a campaign in Ohio and other states. I expect to begin rather early. On the 29th of this month I make a speech at Madison, Wisconsin, and another at Beatrice, Nebraska.

"Put-in-Bay is a delightful place," continued the governor, after a brief hesitation, during which he stood gazing out upon the lake and enjoying the fresh breeze, "and no doubt some day will be a noted watering place. The establishment of this gigantic and first-class hotel, in my mind, marks the advent of the island into an area of prosperity."

GRAND BALL

At Hotel Victory—Some of the Guests in Attendance.

Put-in-Bay, July 15.—(Special—Hotel Victory was thronged with thousands of people all day yesterday, and to-day both excursionists and sigh-seers. The big hotel is the center of attraction, and every man, woman and child that lands from a boat immediately take a car to see Hotel Victory. Guests for the summer are arriving every day.

A grand ball was given last evening, which was indeed a swell affair. The costumes of the ladies were varied and rich. The ofllowing attended:

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Maxwell, Cincinnati; Mrs. Geo. Haffer, Miss Haffer and brother, Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Dodge, and Miss Dodge, Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Baker and their daughter, Miss Gertie Blass, Anna Berdan, Mrs. Manly, Miss Taylor, Miss Suydam and friend, Miss Mamie Mitchell, Miss Grace and Elizabeth Doyle, Judge Doyle and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Scott, Kate Scott; Grant Smith, Washington, Pa.; Mr. Darrow, Cincinnati; Judge Samuel F. Hunt, Cincinnati; Mrs. Ed. Shaw, Mrs. Dr. Coldham, Geo. Shaw; Mrs. Daughady and Misses Daughady, St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. James Clark and Misses Clark, Louisville, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Clark and son, Mr. and Mrs. Nettleton, Toledo; Judge and Mrs. Cox, Cincinnati; Mr. Tom Hamilton, Denver, Col.; Mr. and Mrs. Girard, Cincinnati.

AN IMMENSE SPECTACLE.

Columbus and the Discovery of America

With Twelve Hundred People—The Barnum and Bailey Show Will be in Toledo Saturday, July 23, in all Its Grandeur.

Last season and the year before Barnum and Bailey introduced into the circus the production of great spectacles. It was an original idea with them and they very successfully carried it out for two years. Finding it met with such universal approval, they decided upon continuing so very meritorious a feature and have this season produced another, but upon so grand a scale as to dwarf all their previous great triumphs. The past successes gave them the necessary experience to perfectly produce the present one, based upon the knowledge gained in the last two years they have now indisputably the grandest spectacle the mind can possibly conceive. The theme, too, is both well-timed and appropriate, occurring on exactly the 400th centenary of the finding of the New World and when the nation is about to commemorate the great event by a world's fair. Columbus and the Discovery of America, as its title suggests, is a realistic reproduction of all the circumstances connected with the life of the famed discoverer as well as those parts of history in which he was an important actor. The battles between the Moors and Spaniards are shown with Columbus as a combatant on the side of the cross against the crescent. The ancient cities of Spain are seen with their old walls, turrets, towers, gates, and palaces; the interior of the famous Alhambra palace by moonlight is a ravishing scene, with the Moorish dancing girls in their lovely costumes, dreamily and poetically interpreting the wild, weird music and songs of those days. Moorish warriors in all the splendor of steel armor and high priests in their sacred robes; the chivalry of Spain; the brilliant court of Ferdinand and Isabella, with its rich and noble attendants, cavaliers and courtly dames costumed in a style demonstrating an utter disregard of expense; soldiers armed with cross-bows, arquebuses and other ancient weapons; festivals, fetes, displays, pageants, triumphal processions, tournaments on foot and on horseback, games, combats and other exciting features succeed each other with thrilling rapidity until one's mind is lost in beholding them. Then follows the trials of Columbus, his efforts to obtain recognition, his success and first voyage, the discovry of America, the life of the Indians, their dances and games, the return voyage of Columbus, his triumphal entry into Barcelona and—well, there really is so much to see that description fails of half. Suffice it that for grandeur of conception and magnificance of execution it stands without a parallel in the annals of amusement. The cost to produce it was half a million dollars, no less than $75,000 being spent in scenery alone, while the costumes cost $250,000, and the armor, weapons, trappings, etc., $50,000 more, besides months of time devoted to searching in the archives of Spain for the historical data. Besides all this there are three circus companies in three rings, two elevated stages, the hippodrome, mystifying illusions, two menageries, two herds of elephants, two droves of camels, trained animals, 20 clowns, 50 aerialists, 100 circus performers, 100 circus acts, curious freaks in the animal creation and a thousand novel and wonderful sights as instructive as they are amusing. The entire of all this will be here just as represented on Saturday, July 23, with the new free street parade in the morning at 9 o'clock.

RESOLVED TO RESOLVE.

Central Labor Union Discussed the Strike,

But Could Not Agree as to the Proper Way of Expressing Their Sympathy—Resolutions to be Reconsidered.

Of course the Homestead strike was the principle topic of discussion at the meeting of the Central Labor union, last evening, and of course, as in all union meetings held since the strike, deep sympathy was expressed with the men. But when the resolutions were presented, there was a hitch in the proceedings, and the clause commending the men for fighting the Pinkertons, was opposed by a number present. It seemed to be the feeling that the ballot should be the workingman's weapon, and that if he uses it understandingly, there will no such occasions arise as the bloody conflict at Homestead. The president, Mr. Booth, expressed this sentiment, when he said that he did not wish to see this large and powerful body of organized men put themselves on record as favoring the destruction of property, and the meancing of human life. Such a force of men as the Pinkertons could not be brought into Ohio; the laws of the state forbid it. Pennsylvania's laws do not.

It seemed impossible to settle the matter by amendments, as the more radical men were not content to leave their feeling of contempt for the Pinkertons out of the resolutions altogether, and it was finally decided that the committee be instructed to reconsider the resolutions, and be given until Saturday evening to draw up a set that shall embody the sentiment expressed last night, leaving out all socialistic opinions.

A committee was also appointed to formulate a set of resolutions in favor of securing the painters' headquarters for Toledo.

The arrangements committee on Labor day reported that the grand picnic will be held at Metropolitan park. The subscription of $50 from Mr. A. E. Lang to be used in the celebration of the workingman's holiday was received, and Mr. Lang's generosity warmly applauded.

Another signal for enthusiastic cheering was when the Stars and Stripes, a beautiful flag, presented to the Central Labor union by the Central School Supply House, of Chicago, was unfurled. The legislative committee have been instrumental in getting the school board to purchase supplies from none but union houses, and the Chicago firm took this means of showing their appreciation.

This committee will meet next Monday, the business before them being the ordinance to create the office of inspector of excavations, which is being allowed to die a slow but painless death in the council chambers.

Edward Ahrens, of the Brewery Teamsters' union, and Geo. Fitzmier, of the Cigarmakers', were the new delegates admitted.

BEAT THE POSSE.

A Most Daring Train Robber in Oklahoma.

The Train Was Under Special Guard,

But the Robbers Were Too Much for Them and Secured About Fifty Thousand Dollars.

Parsons, Ks., July 15.—News has reached here that the Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train No. 2 was halted and robbed at Adair station in Indian Territory, 70 miles from here, late last night. The desperadoes who committed the robbery are the Dalton brothers, who have been guilty of more crimes of this nature than of any of the other gangs of ruffians that make the nation their headquarters. The thieves blew open the safe and secured the contents, which, it is asserted by an official who knows, were certainly between $50,000 and $75,000. The robbery was not accomplished without a hard fight, however, in which Capt. J. J. Kinney, chief of detectives of Missouri, Kansas & Texas road; L. A. Flora, a member of the Indian police, and two doctors, passengers on the train and residents of Adair, were wounded. None of them, however, is likely to die from the injuries received.

The train left Vinita, 40 miles east of Adair on time. Nothing wrong was noticed until, when a few miles from Adair, two masked men jumped from the tender into the cab and presenting revolvers at the engineer and fireman ordered the train stopped. This command was obeyed and the train soom came to a standstill. As soon as the train stopped shots were heard outside. Captain Kinney, Flora and the two doctors who live in Adair rushed from the cars. They say two men standing at the side of the express car, into which they had fired several shots, after the messenger had failed to comply with their demand to open the door.

Captain Kinney and Mr. Flora opened fire on the men, who promptly sent several bullets at them, while several men came from one side toward them. They, too, opened fire, and a lively fusilade ensued, in the course of which Kinney, Flora, and the two doctors were wounded. None of the other passengers came to their aid and they were forced to retreat into the cars, their revolvers being empty.

The men who had last appeared kept up a lively firing for the purpose of intimidating the passengers on the train and with excellent effect, not a soul appearing. As a matter of fact, most of them were under their seats or lying in the car aisles.

The two men at the express car were joined by a third, only one man being left with the engineer and firman.

Up to this time the messenger had persisted in his refusal to open the door. One of the Dalton boys then shouted that he had placed dynamite under the car and would blow it to atoms if the door was not opened, firing, by way of emphasis, several shots into the car, which passed uncomfortably near the messenger's head.

At this the messenger gave in and opened the door. The three men sprang into the car, and while one covered the terrified messenger with his gun the other two turned their attention to the safe. The work of blowing it open was soon accomplished and the contents quickly extracted. After relieving the messenger of his watch the robbers bound him and dumped him in a corner of the car. They then leaped to the ground, and then after firing several more shots, disappeared.

After it became a certainty that the robbers had gone the train started for Adair. As soon as the station was reached the alarm was given, a posse hastily formed and returned to the scene of the robbery. No trace of the thieves was discernible. That they were members of the Dalton gang, headed by the Daltons themselves, is known beyond peradventure.

The officials here are reticent as to the amount of money taken by the thieves, but the sum given above is vouched for by an official of the express compnay here.

The railroad people, while admitting the facts stated, express surprise that the affair should have taken place without loss of life. Capt. Kinney, the chief of detectives, is a man noted for his bravery, and the odds must have been greatly against him to force a retreat on his part.

The Dalton gang are famous even among the host of desperadoes that rendezvous in the nation, and the pillaging and murders with which they are credited form a lengthy chapter of crime.

Searching for the Murderer of Mate Walker.

Progress of the Lake Front Fight at Chicago—General News Along the Lakes—Rates and Passages.

Chicago, July 15.—Captain John G. Keith, head of the Lake Carriers' local committee, received assurances from the police yesterday afternoon that the unknown assailant of Mate Walker would be identified and found if there was a possibility of the police being able to do it. Capt. Keith is very much in earnest in his efforts to secure the punishment of the man who caused Walker's death, and said that the Lake Carriers' association would spare nothing which would bring that about. Owing to the large number of sailors and union sympathierzs around the lumber market, it has been decided to move the shipping office from that locality to some point near the Board of Trade, which is the great headquarters for captains when their boats are in port. This will avoid the constant friction between Lake Carrier crews sent out from the shipping office and the union sailors along the docks.

The Lake Front Fight.

The tickets to the excursions to be given Saturday for the defense fund are meeting with a large sale from unexpecter quarters, showing to the managers how widespread the sympathy is with the steamboat men on the lake front.

It is said on good authority that the whaleback people, who are building a passenger boat for the world's fair at West Superior have refused to take any part in the fight soon to be commenced in the courts over the Henry contract for the exclusive privilege of landing at the park piers. They have even declined to have an attorney represent them in the case. Their agent said yesterday that the whaleback company would not object at all if the contract was declared invalid. All that they wanted to do was to have one boat in the traffic, and he did not know but she would do much better running on her own hook than in a syndicate, where she must divide her profits with the other boats.

Lighters in Chicago.

The Lehigh Valley line, or as it is now known, the Reading line, yesterday brought a lighter into service in Chicago river, for the transfer of freight to and from its steamers and out-of-the-way docks.

The experiment of lighters, which has been so successfully tried by Agent MacMillan, of the Western Transit line, showed that it was far cheaper to send freight up the river from the down town docks by a lighter than it was to haul big steamers around the crooked channel, and the Lehigh Valley now adopts the same plan. The great gainer from the new system is the public, as the bridges are saved many swings on account of lighter transfer. There is also a material saving in time to the boats, which much more than repays the cost of running the lighter. All the lake and rail lines will be compelled to adopt the new system. The Lehigh Valley's ligther was towed here from Saginaw Bay by the Tacoma, and is named the Wallace.

Famous Old Ship.

After coming all the way from Boston, the old whaling ship, Progress, had a narrow escape from being wrecked at Milwaukee North Point Wednesday night. She was in tow of the steamer Brittanic which stranded at that point. When the steamer was brought up standing the Progress was compelled to turn directly toward the beach in order to avoid a collision with the Brittanic. Her old rusty anchor was let go and held her from running directly on shore. The Britannic succeeded in clearing herself and reached here yesterday afternoon after leaving the Progress at Racine, where she is to be fitted up for exhibition in this city.

"The old boat," said Capt. Ira B. Mansfield, of the Britannic, "was given a very cordial reception by all the boats we met on the way up from Detriot. At some points excursion boats came out to see her, and salutes from the shore and from steamer whistles were very frequent. When off South Fox Island the tow line to the Progress parted on account of the heavy southwest wind, and we had a good deal of trouble in picking her up again. The old boat looked nice as she stood away under spanker and staysails. She towed hard, as she drew 12 feet of water. She is what is known in sailor's English as a full rigged bark."

It was decided yesterday to have the Progress anchor in the basin off the lake front upon her arrival here. It is bad for the syndicate which brought the old boat up from salt water, that she cannot be put in a building or under a tent. There is far more curiosity to see a real old-fashioned whaling ship itself than the museum of whaling appliances she may have on board.

Big Load.

Masters sworn in at the custom house yesterday were: Tug Protection, George McLevey; tug E. P. Ferry, George McDonald.

The new steel steamer W. H. Gilbert carried out a 101,000 bushels of wheat from Duluth on a draft of 14 feet, 3 inches forward and 14 feet, 8 inches aft. This is within 3,000 bushels of the record established by the steamer E. C. Pope last season.

Tawas.

East Tawas, July 15.—The tug T. W. Moore, owned by T. E. Wilson, of Cleveland, arrived last night. She has a diver and outfit and will be stationed here this season. Capt. Henry Montgomery is in charge.

Duluth.

Duluth, July 15.—Three vessels were chartered to load next week for Kingston at old rates. Buffalo rates hold at 3 cents.

Cleveland.

Cleveland, July 15.—Three and a quarter on wheat, Duluth to Buffalo, is again freely offered by vessel owners here today. Some irregular transactions at 75c on ore from Escanaba are not recognized as fixing rates. The struggle is still on, and a big amount of tonnage is being held back.

INTO A RIVER,

Is Precipitated a Freight Train and Engine—Collision With a Wild Freight.

Connersville, Ind., July 15.—Freight train No. 43 was run into at 2 o'clock this morning by a wild freight while standing on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad bridge, which spans Whitewater river, east of here.

The collision caused the spans on each end of the bridge to give way, precipitating the engine and 13 loaded cars into the river. Engineer Thompson and Fireman Wright of the wild freight jumped from the engine. Both were considerably bruised. Charles Iglehart, brakeman, of Hamilton, and Edward Brannon, brakeman, of Indianapolis, were seriously injured. The damage is estimated at $70,000.

A western girl who married a dull English lord, thus describes her daily life: "It is nothing but violet, velvet and veal one day, and mauve, moire and mutton the next."

Dr. Lauder Brunton declares that cold water is a valuable stimulant to many if not all people. Its action on the heart is more stimulating than brandy. His own experience is that sipping half a wineglass of cold water will raise his pulse from 76 to over 100.

Naples has a Froebel institute, managed by Mme. Schwabe and Mlle. Baermann. It is 20 years in existence and began with two children. It has now 29 classes and 1,000 pupils. All do not come under the head of free students, as many are from well-to-do families.

The well that prompted Samuel Woodworth to write "The Old Oaken Bucket" is still kept in good condition, and many visitors to Scituate, Mass., go and get a draught of its water, which seems pure and cool as ever. The old mill and pound are there, but not much is left of the "deep-tangled wild-wood."

The rate of progression of a storm is often 50 miles an hour, and a series has often been traced in a direct line from north to south a distance of 400 miles. The average altitude of thunderstorms has been found to be not over 5,000 feet above the surface of the earth.

A Frenchman recently brought five hundred parrots from Brazil to dispose of in Paris. An epidemic broke out among the birds, from which all but two died. The contagion then spread to the persons who kept them, and several have succumbed to an infectious pneumonia.

A dead gypsy was buried recently in Weissensee, near Berlin. The hearse was followed by gypsies playing fiddles or clashing cymbals, the six oldest members of the clan beating tambourines. The burial was performed with the ordinary Catholic rites, but afterward the gypsies sacrificed a dog "to the moon."

There is a wonderful piece of mechanism in the United States government mint in the shape of the scales for weighing the gold coin. Two pieces of paper of equal weight have been placed upon the balances, and on one being removed and an autograph in lead pencil inscribed on it, the second piece has been found to outweigh the other.

A substitute for India rubber and gutta percha, brought out by Messrs. Werms and Zwierchowski, consists of Manilla gum with 5 per cent. of Auvergne bitumen, mixed with benzine, and, after two or three days, with 5 per cent. of resin oil. The product is said to have the suppleness, elasticity, solidity and durability of the best rubber.

Some interesting experiments in flashlight telegraphy have recently been made on the Eiffel tower. From this conspicuous eminence rapid communication can be made to all the forts around Paris, and recent experiences seem to indicate the possibility of the tower being very useful in time of war. In only one case was there any difficulty in communicating with the outer defenses of Paris.

Are artificially colored flowers dangerous? This question has been submitted to the Council of Hygiene, Paris, by the Prefect of the Seine, and the answer is that they are not. Most of the dyes used are harmless, and in the case of zinc greens or anilines containing a trace of arsenic the quantity in the flower is so small that if it were sucked and swallowed it would not harm any one.

At Hirnisketschen, in Bohemia, from the unequal working of nature in the destruction of rocks has resulted a most colossal and ruggedly beautiful arch, the summit of which is upward of 1,400 feet above sea level. The sides and top together appear at a distance like the frame of an immense picture, the latter being represented by the wildly romantic scenery which is visible through the opening of the arch.

The California World's Fair Commission has decided to send a famous big tree to the exposition, and to plant it near the California building. The tree selected is 300 feet high, and now stands on private grounds near the famous Mariposa Grove. The Californians say they can transport this tree to Chicago without injuring it, by using ten flat cars, and that when it is planted in the exposition grounds it will look just as if it had grown there. The scheme meets great favor among exposition officials.

Ask the average man what he thinks is about the average diameter of the smokestacks of the large Atlantic steamers, and he will most probably say somewhere between four and eight feet, the latter figure being put as the outside limit. And he will be about ten feet wide of the mark on every guess, for steamship funnels are the most deceptive things afloat. The funnels of the Etruria, which may be taken as a fair standard for the big liners, measure over eighteen feet in diameter.

The best handles of small tools are made from the wood of the apple tree, which is extremely hard when dry, and possesses a fine grain. Moreover, it does not check easily after it has been dressed. In the case of a plane, while the handle proper will be of this wood, the best wood for the block in which the cutting part of the plane is fastened, has been found to be second-growth beech which has grown in a clearing. The trunk of such a tree below where the branches start is used for this purpose with the best results.

Every bee carries his market basket around his hind legs. Any one examining the body of a bee through a microscope will observe that on the hind legs of the creature there is a fringe of stiff hairs on the surface, the hairs approaching each other at the tips so as to form a sort of cage. This is the bee's basket, and into it, after a successful journey, he will cram enough pollen to last him for two or three days. Every one has seen a bee returning home with a little yellow lump on his hind leg, and if the insect is then examined the form of the basket can be easily seen.

During target practice on board H. M. S. Trafalgar, the locking bolt of the turret was broken, and the turret was practically useless for three days, although the ship's artificers worked day and night at repairs. Here was one-half of the fighting power of a ship of 11,940 tons and 12,000 horse power disabled for three days by the breaking of a single bolt. But if the breaking of a single locking bolt disables the half of the fighting power of a 12,000-tons ironclad, and the repairs of that defect require the labor of the whole of the ship's artificers for three days and nights, what may be expected when a ship has been engaged for an hour with an enemy of equal fighting power? How many mechanics will be required to repair damages after one heavy shell has exploded?

ROMANCE OF MANON.

A farmer named Isaac Dobbs while digging post holes on a farm, about four feet deep, in a low, mucky road, found two skeletons buried about four feet deep in the low, mirky soil, says the Philadelphia Item. When he first struck the bones he thought they were stones, but as he dug around them he discovered that the honey-combed bones of two men had been lying beneath his cornfield since his father owned the farm.

The skeletons were taken up and an attempt made to put them together again, but it was found impossible, as so many of the bones were missing, having probably decayed. Old historians all over Wayne county have been trying to discover who the strange skeletons belonged to, but without avail.

There is an old French woman living on the river Rouge, called by the neighbors "Old Elize," who claims to know all about the story of the two skeletons, at least she has a story that fits the two skeletons perfectly, and as it is interesting, not to say romantic, it must be accepted as an adequate explanation.

"Elize" is a very, very old woman. No one pretends to know just how old she is, and even she herself will not say, if she knows. The neighbors know she has lived there as long as they can remember, and how much longer they don't know. Her story is substantially as follows, though told in a very broken accent:

Long ago, before the white man had broken the serenity of the virgin forest with his destroying ax and plough, the French hunters and trappers scoured the woods of Eastern Michigan and vied with the Indian in their pursuit of the abundant game. There were no cities here then, but only a few distant and obscure trading forts. But at one of these forts located on the Ecorse creek, where Ecorse now is, lived old man Grandin and his daughter Manon. Manon, so the story goes, was very beautiful, so beautiful, in fact, that her fame had spread all over the great lakes and Canada. But with all her beauty she was not proud or haughty, but sweet and modest and obedient.

Lucky, indeed, was the fellow who could gain so much as a look or a word from this shy Venus. But there were two young hunters, friends of old Grandin, Basil LeBlanc and Louis St. Pierre, who seemed to find more favor in the coy Manon's eyes than anyone else. Both were young, handsome and brave, besides being well dressed according to the fashions of those primitive days. They had been friends before either heard of the other's infatuation for old Grandin's daughter, when they became at once bitter implacable enemies.

Each tried to press his suit and encountered the other's opposition, which called for an immediate combat to decide which should have the privilege of winning the lovely maiden's hand. Of course all this was according to the customs of those days, so "Old Elize" tells you.

Manon heard of the proposed meeting between the rival lovers and begged of them not to sacrifice each other for her sake, but they would not listen to her. It is said that she saw them both as they were coming from the door of the old Jesuit mission, and asked them to give up all thought of fighting for her sake, but both men shook their heads and passed on with protestations of love for her and hate for each other. They next met in a deep wood near the River Rouge where Farmer Dobbs found their bones the other day. They had sworn to fight on sight and they were not men to parley or quail at the thought of mortal combat. Both men were armed with long hunting knives, and as they cast aside their caps and other loose garments they drew from their sheaths the glistening blades of steel. No one knows the details of that terrible fight to the death between these rival lovers on that shaded sward, where the long, waving prairie grass was trodden to the earth and matted with the fighters' blood.

Elize says they fought for an hour till finally each fell down exhausted side by side, and then as strength returned they resumed the battle prostrate as they were and bled out their lives cutting each other's throats.

It was weeks before the bodies of the dead men were found, and then the birds of prey had picked the bones clean, and the whitened skeletons lay glistening in the sun, their deadly knives by their sides, with eyeless sockets and naked teeth gleamed hatred at each other.

Such is the story that Elize tells to explain the finding of the two skeletons, buried afterwards by friendly hands and left to be preserved in the swamp. Elize is not at all circumstantial in her narrative, nor does she tolerate cross-examination. If you want her to talk you must listen and not question her. Details are with her, not the empty ornaments that cumber a romance and make it appear bungling.

"Be sure you get Ayer's" is an important caution to all in search of a thoroughly reliable blood-purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla being the one on which there can be no manner of doubt. It has stood the test of nearly half a century, and has long been considered the standard.

PROPER CARE OF BOOKS.

A Mother's Experience Which is Worth Noting

Few persons take proper care of books. Even those that have consideration enough not to fold down the corners of the leaves and blot or mar the pages with pencil marks will not hesitate to leave them lying about, a prey to careless handling, or let them stand on a partly filled shelf and, tipping over in a slant, become spoiled in shape and firmness, but to one who loves them it is painful to see such carelessness.

Books should be always kept carefully guarded from dust, always kept upright on the shelves, not at all difficult if a little care is exercised, and never laid down open on the face. This last, a habit with some readers, may be suitable treatment for a third-rate paper novel, but to treat a book for which one has any respect in that fashion shows that person unworthy of ever owning a good book.

The proper feeling for books should be taught a child before it is old enough to talk. A mother who loves both her baby and her books proves this possible, and her experience may be worth relating.

She felt the necessity of teaching him to be careful, as the family were in the habit of leaving books about, and she knew the child would be handling them very early. She took an old volume, and here and there pasted a gay picture. The little fellow leaved this over daily, and in finding his brightly colored pictures learned to handle the leaves without tearing them.

He was not refused other books when older, and at four or five years could be trusted with any volume. It might not be so easy to teach every child, but the Rochester Herald thinks the experiment is worth trying, at least.

But of all persons the one most dreaded by the real book lover is the careless borrower. He will borrow your handsome pet volume and then lend it to another, or forget to return it, or treat it so badly that you scarcely recognize it when it is at last once more in your possession. A person who is guilty of such things is no better than a thief.

To share a good book with a friend is to have a double pleasure out of it, but to lend it to one who will ill treat it is to share it with an enemy. This is an old theme.

Many a one has loaned a favorite book and never seen it again, but if the borrower could know the estimation in which he was afterwards held by the lender he would regret his conduct.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Cardinal Gibbons starts next week for a month's outing in Nova Scotia.

Senator Sawyer, though one of the richest, is one of the least ostentatious men in congress.

Sara Bernhardt does not take any stock in the principles of Delsarte, which she denominates a cold-blooded struggle for effect.

Senator Peffer loves children and delights to see them gamboling around him. The children reciprocate by loving "his whiskers."

Prof. Buchner, of Darmstadt, who ought to know all about it, says that the average term of life is longer among women than among men.

The French statesman, M. Jules Simon, has written a preface for "The Art of Living," a treatise on health by his son, Dr. Gustave Simon.

Miss Hannah Fairchild, of Westport, Conn., has been a church member for fifty-five years, and has not missed a single service during that period.

Kate Marsden is to visit this country in a few weeks. She is one of the world's true heroines. At the age of 15 she accompanied the Russian army on its Bulgarian campaign as a member of the Red Cross society. In late years she has labored among the lepers of South Africa and Siberia and believes she has found a remedy for the terrible disease.

Mrs. Emilie Kempin was recently made a member of the faculty of the University of Zurich, one of the most conservative institutions of learning in Europe. An honor of such a kind has never previously been conferred, it is said, on a woman in a German-speaking country. Mrs. Kempin is a graduate of Zurich, where she received the degree of LL. D., and has spent several years in the United States.

When Prince Oscar visited the Prince of Monaco recently the latter ruler not only turned out his full army to receive the guest, but he reenforced the organization by borrowing a few policemen from the City of Nice. The governor-general of Monaco, the Baron de Farencourt, presented himself in his new uniform made for the occasion, which the sovereign visitor is said to have declared the most magnificent which he had yet seen in the west.

THINGS WORTH REMEMBERING.

When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably; when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When this fit of indigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of Brandreth's Pills will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night for a week or ten days, will act as a preventive of either complaint.

SMILES.

There was a strike at Coney Island concert last night. The tenor and the first bass both undertook to take home the soprano. The tenor made one strike and the base two, and walked off with the girl.—Philadelphia Call.

A couple of disputatious neighbors were contending as to which is the oldest business in the world, when the wife of one of them, with her babe in her arms, silenced them by declaring that the oldest is the nursery business.

New Cook—I'm told the missus wants things in th' high-toned, fashionable style. Sure, I'm afraid I won't suit, for it's only plain cookin' I've done. Old Cook—It's aisy enough. Make everything taste loike something ilse.—Judge.

Judge—You say the bullet entered the victim's head? Witness—Yes, sir. Judge—Well, now, previous to the shooting had there been any trouble—any threats that would have led the victim to expect the shot? Witness—No, sir; I don't think such a thing ever entered his head before.—The Rambler.

Little Girl—"My papa has to get up awful early so as to get to the office and see if the clerks is there attendin' to business." Little Boy—"My papa don't have to. He's one of the clerks."—Good News.

Wal, the shiftlessness of some people do beat all! Just as I come up the street I see Mrs. Sanders' oldest gal, Mirandy—at th's hour o' the day—a settin' on the piazzer in a rocker, with her hands in her lap and her mouth open, not doin' a blessed thing.—Truth.

Jeanette—"Does Miss Boardman get her lovely complexion from her father or her mother?" Gladys (sweetly)—"From her father. He's in the drug business."—Chicago News Record.

ACTORS ARE QUICK WITTED

They Know What to Do at a Critical Moment.

Those Behind the Scene Sometimes Witness More Entertaining Performances Than Those Watching the Stage in Front.

"Of course an audience laughs heartily at any mistake we make, and I never blame people for roaring at any break, said an old-timer who is summering on cool Lake Erie instead of the hot Atlantic, to a Cleveland World writer. "But you people in front of the stage don't enjoy them as we who are back, and don't see half as many.

"The most trying position a man can be placed in is when someone makes a break and he is called upon to patch it. That is the time when the coolest of us are liable to become excited and make matters worse. I knew one cool-headed young fellow whose ability had never come to the surface who got a start by doing the right thing at the right time.

"We were with a tank drama, one of those shows the principal feature of which is one large tank filled with water, and in our company there were six or seven men who played the tank, only they didn't fill up on water. About all there was to the play was a lunatic asylum and a real steamboat that ran up and down the tank.

"The asylum could have been dispensed with and we could have gotten along all right, but we couldn't do without the boat. All there was to the thing was a hull, a boiler, a wheel, and last, but most important, a whistle. She couldn't run an inch, and we had to push her and pull her with a rope that was attached to the bow. All the boiler was good for was to furnish steam for the whistle, and the steam was raised by coal oil lamps.

"One night, as she was to make her last appearance, she began to fill with water and sank. The heroine was saying: 'Ah, the boat approaches. We will cross the bay and be saved!' After she said that she saw that the boat had sunk, but she didn't have sense enough to smooth things. There was a silence of about 10 seconds, during which time she looked blankly in the direction of the boat.

"The young fellow I spoke of grasped the situation, rushed on the stage and grabbing the heroine's hand, shouted: 'Come with me, I'll protect you with my life;' and rushed off the stage, dragging her after him.

"I was in a company once that had a wreck scene, and we had to float around the ocean on a raft for two or three weeks. The raft worked on hinges and rollers, and when we started her to pitching and rolling as though she was on water a man was liable to fall off. One night a 'supe' did tumble off into the wild waves. Instantly the carpet that made the waves stopped plunging and the sea was calm, but the raft pitched the same as she did when the sea was highest. One of the fellows on the raft grabbed the 'supe' and yelled: 'I have saved him! Sail on!' Everyone in the audience supposed it was part of the play and applauded vigorously.

"Thomas W. Keene is a quick one to act in a trying position. In Richelieu he examines the gun of one of the guards and says: 'A trusty weapon.' One night as the gun was handed to him the hammer and a piece of the metal fell off and rattled on the floor. Three or four of the people snickered, but Keene silenced them by saying: 'A worthless weapon! Better to be used as a club than a gun.' The guard saw the point and acted accordingly when the time came to use the gun.

"John McCullough was knocked out in Boston one night when he was playing Brutus in Julius Caesar. McCullough was delivering the oration that precedes Antony's and Caesar's dead body lay before him. It was in the winter and the stage was cold. A supe was playing Caesar dead and he became chilled with nothing on him but a toga. While McCullough was talking the supe sneezed.

"Everybody in the audience roared with laughter and it spread to the Roman citizens who had gathered to hear the orations. At last McCullough, who could hardly keep quiet, burst out laughing. He was mad clear through, but couldn't help laughing.

"Do you remember the scene in A Parlor Match where the drummer gets a bucket of coal out of the safe that the burglar had tried to blow open? In Chicago one night the drummer came on whistling, with a coal bucket on his arm and unlocked the safe to get the coal. 'Humph, the property man's asleep,' said Evans, who played the drummer, and walked off with the empty bucket.

"There was a break in Under the Red Flag that was given at Jacobs' a couple of weeks ago by a lot of amateurs, but fortunately no one noticed it. One enthusiastic man appeared at the theater under the influence of liquor one night, but there was no one to take his place and they had to let him go on. In one scene he was about to collapse, and one of the company walked on the stage, took hold of his arm, and said: 'Ladies, please excuse Mr. So and So as I wish to speak to him privately on a matter of business,' and few people were any the wiser.

"Dorothy Morton did a clever thing one night this week in the opera Dorothy. During the scene in the woods when she is disguised as Percy Dasher a string on one of the violins snapped with a loud report. It happened at a time when nothing was being said, and as the house was quiet the noise seemed the louder.

"The audience hesitated and was ready to laugh. 'Ah,' said Miss Morton, looking blankly at the violin player, 'broke something.' The remark came in so pat and the expression on Miss Morton's face was so clever that the incident started a laugh.

"Ben Lodge, the Spencer Opera company's comedian, was one of the most original fellows I ever knew. You never could tell what he was going to spring.

"One night H. R. Jacobs occupied a box through Girofle-Girofla. Bob Ward was playing Mourzouk and playing well. In one scene he slashed at Ben with his sword and Ben retreated to the wings in great alarm. Ward followed him, slashing right and left and struck the proscenium with his sword. As Ward turned around and left him, Lodge said, 'That's all right. You can chase me all around but you wait till Jacobs catches you.' Jacobs didn't see any fun in it, but the other people did."

THE LADIES.

OLD MONUMENTS.

Many of Them Being Destroyed in Palestine and Syria.

One of the most deplorable features of modern Palestine and Syria is the systematic destruction of the monuments of the old civilization. In Egypt, indeed, matters are in a much better condition, and the government does everything in its power to preserve the monuments. The tourists and the natives are not permitted to destroy what they please, while the scholar and investigator has ready and full access to the treasures, which are owned by the government, and for the preservation of which museums have been established. As soon as we reach Turkish territory the whole aspect changes in this regard. As a rule, the officials hinder the scholar from using these remains for scientific study. In Syria and Palestine a large number of the remains of the historic building has been closed to the traveler entirely. To make matters still worse the populace of the country are systematically demolishing what is left of the old structures, and using the materials for new buildings. What centuries of barbarism has not done, the last few decades of "enlightened" Turkish rule or misrule have accomplished. That these monuments had a value in the eyes of the people and the officials only in so far as they could be used as a source of "Bakshish" revenue, goes without saying; but now even a lower estimate is put upon them, and they are valued only as quarries out of which building stone and other materials for houses can be secured. True, there is a museum of antiquities in Constantinople, and the government of Turkey pretends in a measure to concern itself for these treasures, but in reality this practically amounts to little or nothing. Only recently the excavations at Saida were hidden from all investigators.

The only exception to this deplorable rule are the ruins of Baalbek. The Acropolis of these famous remains are no longer accessible except upon the payment of a medshidi (about four francs) admission. This has stopped the vandalism of both tourist and native. All the other ruins of Palestine and Middle Syria—Northern Syria I did not visit—share the common lot; they are to all intents and purposes stone quarries. To a certain extent this indeed has been the case all along. Cities like Acca, Saida, Sur, have been built from the material found in the ruins of the cities formerly at these places. But in recent years the destruction has spread over the entire land.

In Atlit, the old Castellum Peregrinorum, the present owner, the Wali of Syria, has built a fine village, but the old ruins were demolished to furnish the materials. In Caesarea the Bosnia's have been making a sad havoc.—Dr. Benzinger.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE FOR TEETHING BABIES.

To the Editor of the Bee:

So many little ones are dangerously sick from teething in summer that I feel it my duty to say that my baby has cut six teeth without any trouble during the hot weather, the result of being fed with lactated food. I hope every mother will use it. MOTHER EXPERIENCE.

SHE HAD FORGOTTEN.

After she had made her purchases, and had informed the clerk as to the address to which they should be sent, she picked up her purse with her left hand and placed her parasol across her left arm, gazing the while over the counter and floor, as if in search of something else.

"Excuse me, miss," ventured the clerk, "but have you mislaid anything?"

"I am sure I don't know," she replied, "but when I entered the store I am positive that I carried something in my right hand."

"Did you not have your parasol or purse in your right hand?"

"No, for I recollect very distinctly that I carried my purse in my left hand and the parasol on my left arm, as you see them now."

"It is very strange," remarked the clerk, with a troubled expression on his face, as he searched under the different pieces of fabric strewn over the counter.

"I cannot imagine what it was," she remarked, musingly, as she placed a small gloved hand to her chin and gazed into space. "I am positive it was something, and I feel lost without it."

"I am unable to find anything here," came the muffled voice of the clerk from under the counter, whither he had dropped a few seconds before with the faint hope of being able to find the missing he knew not what.

"Oh, I know now what it was," she gleefully exclaimed, as a pretty flush overspread her face, "it was this."

As the clerk's head bobbed up from behind the counter, like a jack-in-the-box, she, with a graceful sweep of her shapely right arm, clutched a handful of her skirt in the back and smilingly took her departure.—Life.

GEOGRAPHICAL FICTION.

Instances of Its Value Pleasantly Presented.

It will always be a fruitful topic of discussion whether or not fiction is a necessity to literature. "Of what value," it is asked, "is a love story, a romance, an analysis of the passions, or of life?"

It is doubtful if all the delightful stories devoted to plot, characterization, and analysis have quickened the wheels of the world by one revolution. Poetry, history, science, philosophy, letters, essays, biographies, mould the mind of one generation after another, shouldering civilization from plane to plane; but of all the great novelists whom we are ordered in our youth to read, to which do we owe the toughening of a single muscle beyond the mere intellectual exercise? I can think of no one but Scott; he, because he illuminates history.

Kipling is the historian of India, modern India, desolate, baked India, in its incongruous combination with the fair, sleek, eupeptic gentlemen of the damp northern isle. His stories, collectively, are just as necessary additions to the libraries of the earth as Macauley's essays on Clive and Warren Hastings, infinitely more so than Arnold's "Light of Asia," or Moore's "Lalla Rookh."

What is the secret of the popularity and tenacity of that tiresome tale called "Lorna Doone," the favorite story of nine out of ten women? Not the lagging tale itself, for it could be told in a chapter. It is the presumably perfect picture of a day we can never look upon a recitation of manners and customs which induce an uncountenanced thrill of self-congratulation as we close the book and contemplate the picturesque furnishing of another brain-cell; the human mind wants to know.

Black's stories and fame are almost wholly dependent upon the wonderful sea and sky and heather effects of the northern islands. The Princess of Thule drops ninety degrees when the scene shifts to London; and even his most dramatic novel, "Macleod of Dare," would verge perilously near the commonplace had he omitted the impressive details of the black, massive old castle on the cliffs, fought by storms and lashed by waves, or had he given in detail the picture of Macleod pouring the black wine down his wife's throat, instead of leaving this unpleasant and somewhat humorous scene to the awakened imagination of the reader, and painting in bold and terrible strokes the blind, rudderless flight of the yacht through the howling storm, tossed by the mountainous waves—the rocks ahead, the fate inevitable.

Mark Twain's greatest and most permanent work is "Huckleberry Finn,"—a wonderful picture of the old south in many phases.

Bret Harte has given to literature a series of Californian medallions, perfect of execution, faithful to one short chapter, and one section of that versatile country's geography.

Thomas Hardy is hardly dependent on his "Exmoor," so relentlessly does he keep it where it belongs—in the background. Still, even in the "Tess of the Dubervilles," that greatest of modern tales, some of the scenes which linger longest in the memory,—perhaps as a welcome relief from the sombre tragedy of the heroine—are the pictures of the maids milking, and the field labors of the women during the latter period of Tess' probation, when her prig of a husband is moralizing in Brazil.

Cable is said to have misrepresented the vocabulary of the educated Creole, but it must be remembered that many others fell by the wayside at the period of his literary nativity. His photographs are probably correct and certainly pleasing to contemplate. Some people may not care about the Tennessee mountains, but as they have evolved a people and a dialect they have a claim on the attention of scribe and student. Anything existing has.

It would be a pleasure to read Hamlin Garland's descriptions of Dakota had he no story to tell, no painful humanity in him. Octave Thanet is revealing the conventional west. Mary Wilkins is putting New England into shape for posterity, and Thomas Nelson Page, and Joel Chandler Harris, and Richard Malcolm Johnston have immortalized the negro and his complex method of working his brain and tongue.

Perhaps Barrie would be as delightful out of Thrums as in it, but we hope he will stay there, and are glad that Thrums waited for him.

Janvier has told us more about Mexico than Prescott did. Richard Harding Davis—most fin de siecle of even the new group of writers—is throwing flash-lights upon New York, now here, now there, from society to the slums, all pictures of intense brilliancy, and likely to prove of intense historical value. Mrs. Cruger and Mrs. Burton Harrison have respectively painted and etched the otherwise neglected field of New York society.

To war fiction Ambrose Bierce has made the most graphic, horrible, and vivid contributions. The very atmosphere of the book is painted with blood, and echoes with butchery; it is as relentless an arraignment of the wanton massacres of this lingering phase of barbarism as Verestchagin's paintings.

All of the authors cited have to do with the passions and pathos and humor, with plot and climax; but there is not one of them who does not owe his distinction to the geographical quality of his work. And when every claim on this little globe shall have been staked or jumped, I suppose we shall have to fall back once more on the passions, pathos, and humor, on plot and climax; for the world being full of knowledge, will want to be amused the more.—Lippincott's.

A SUMMARY.

OUR OWN DR. HOLMES.

His is the art of suggestion, says the London Athenaeum, and his special kind of humor is a roundabout, allusive variety, a delicate intellectual humor, which has nothing in common with that vivid and explosive vulgarity which is the typical American product. Sometimes trivial and a little thin-spread, it has none of the obtrusive virtues or vices. It is the humor of the clever and amiable old physician, smiling sympathetically over the illusions that he respects.

BANG.

They had been watching for some time the stowing of freight into the capacious hull of a lake steamer when, rather unexpectedly, operations ceased and the boat puffed out.

"What's the boat going off for?" inquired the lady.

"Possibly," responded the man, abstractedly, "because it is loaded."

The lady looked round for a dray pin to hit him with, but there was none, and the river flowed silently on.—Detroit Free Press.

SOME VITAL STATISTICS.

Getting born into the world costs the people of the United States $250,000,000 annually, getting married $300,000,000, and getting buried $75,000,000 and getting drunk costs people of the United States $900,000,000 annually, over one and one-half times as much as getting born, married and buried all put together.

SAVING THE SIGHT.

Effect of Tobacco, Alcohol and Reading Upon the Eyes.

Dr. L. Webster Fox has, in a recent lecture, given some hints and advice of the utmost value concerning the care and preservation of the eyesight in middle life and old age. While pointing out that the excessive use of tobacco not only weakens the muscles of the eye, but also produces a lowering of the acuity of vision and a form of color blindness, Dr. Fox mentions incidentally as a well authenticated fact that boys who have indulged in the use of tobacco are not mentally and physically as strong as those who abstain. Not only have medical men recognized the tendency to a depression of the vital force in boys and young men who are constant users of tobacco, but athletic trainers will never select their boat's crew from such ranks. They know that tobacco weakens the heart, and, although the tobacco smoker may be a giant in strength, when the final test comes collapse and defeat follow.

"When such facts are known to medical men," says Dr. Fox, "no wonder that 29 states have passed laws forbidding the sale of tobacco to boys."

There is, nevertheless, a large gulf between the use and abuse of the fragrant weed. Men who have gone through a certain amount of mental strain are the better for smoking one, two or three cigars daily; they have a soothing effect on the overwrought nervous system, and smoking brushes away the cobwebs and makes man a more sociable creature.

Among the sources of the greatest trouble to the eyesight are the chewing of tobacco (this above all others), the excessive use of wine, spirits or beer; the indiscriminate administration of quinine; the use of cosmetics for heightening the luster of the eye, and mixtures for dyeing the hair and eyebrows, and there is a case on record where a diminution of vision has been traced to the wearing of an artificial wreath of flowers. Another source of failing vision may be traced to impeded circulation. The wearing of tight neckwear, such as collars which are too small or shirtbands or neckties tightly drawn, should be avoided, as they prevent the downward column of blood returning to the heart, and dilatation and development of disease is likely to follow. The same rule holds good of constriction of other parts of the body.

Another most serious source of eye strain is constant reading in railway carriages, which is the practice of nearly all business men in going to and from their offices or stores, and the injury to the eye from this cause alone is incalculable. Nothing gives tired eyes greater relief than a green disc or square of sufficient size, suspended on a direct line of vision at or against a wall on which the eyes can rest; but best of all to look upon is a green grass plot or green trees. It is suggested that it would be a public boon if our monthly magazines were printed on a paper of a neutral tint and the drop curtains in theaters should have scenes painted on them showing great perspective. It is a rest to the eyes after the concentrated effort made in trying to watch the facial expression or eyes of an actor to look upon such a picture.

After the last epidemic of la grippe Dr. Fox was particularly impressed with the large number of patients complaining of the loss of power of the converging muscles of the eye. Upon investigation he found that while these patients were confined either to bed or home they would read incessantly. The result of this overtaxation was weakened eye muscles, and so long as they remained unsupported by prisms the patient suffered with pain over the eye region, headaches and other evidences of eye strain. Individuals suffering from any depressing disease should be as guarded as to the length of time they read or use their eyes on straining work as they are with regard to physical exertion of any kind. Fresh air and a moderate quantity of light are great essentials to good eyesight. High temperature helps to ruin people's eyes more than is generally known, while too much light, especially if it be reflected, is particularly injurious.

HER IDEA OF IT.

If Barytes and other adulterants of White Lead are just as good as

why is it that all the bogus and adulterated white leads are always branded "Pure," or "Strictly Pure White Lead?"

No one ever puts a misleading brand on an article of merchandise, unless he wants to "work off" an inferior for a better.

This Barytes or Baryta, is a heavy white powder, worthless as paint; costing only about one cent per pound and is used to adulterate and cheapen the mixture. No one ever adulterates white lead with an article costing more than Lead.

If you purchase any of the following brands you are sure of having strictly pure white lead—

ANCHOR (Cincinnati)
ARMSTRONG & McKELVY (Pittsburgh)
BEYMER-BAUMAN (Pittsburgh)
COLLIER (St. Louis)
CORNELL (Buffalo)
DAVIS-CHAMBERS (Pittsburgh)
ECKSTEIN (Cincinnati)
FAHNESTOCK (Pittsburgh)
MORLEY (Cleveland)
RED SEAL (St. Louis)
SHIPMAN (Chicago)
SOUTHERN (St. Louis and Chicago)

These brands of strictly pure White Lead and the National Lead Co.'s Tinting Colors are for sale by the best dealers in paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 346,992 bu., and at five other western points 209,291 bu., an aggregate of 553,283 bu. On the same Friday in 1891 the receipts were 696,600 bu., with only 135,257 bu. of northwest wheat.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were: Wheat, 97,118 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 280,000 bu. Exports of corn, 238,012 bu., and of oats 18,392 bu.

English markets as reported herein open 1-2d up on wheat and corn.

The Markets To-Day.

The receipts of winter wheat are much less than last year. At Toledo, Detroit and St. Louis to-day 102,945 bu. Same Friday in 1891, 325,883 bu. Yesterday the receipts at same points were 187,650 bu. less than Thursday, 1891.

The grading of wheat in Toledo breaks the record. Out of 59 cars' new wheat in to-day, 54 grade No. 2 soft.

In Shipping Grain to Toledo dealers cannot be too cautious concerning the condition of cars in which grain is to be loaded. Car doors and all openings should be scrutinized and the car in all respects made to hold what is put into it. Again, the loaded car should not be left unlocked over night. Many an unsuspected man will help himself. White man is very uncertain at shipping as well as at receiving points. Wheat thieves are very numerous and very handy. Take as good care of your wheat as you do of your money.

Michigan Crop.

By way of Chicago comes the report that the Michigan wheat crop will be large and good. All the same we know of many vicinities in southern Michigan where it will be neither large nor good.

The Market Record says Northern Dakota crop is not promising large results. Some fields plowed up, etc. South Dakota, 10 per cent. increase in acreage and good prospect. In Minnesota the promise is only fair for the whole state, and in all three states subject to effects of future weather conditions.

Smutty Wheat.

New York telegraphs the impression there that smutty wheat in Toledo grades into No. 3. It is a mistake. We have a grade of smutty wheat, and wheat containing that malodorous element goes into a distinct and separate grade of bins, and is not mixed with anything unless by those who ship wheat of mixed grades without inspection.

The wheat markets have ruled strong all day east and west and advanced. August in Chicago made the greatest gain. The backward movement, and improved markets abroad give the principal reasons for the firmness. Near the close the markets lost part of the gain.

Corn has not done so well to-day and closes 1-2c lower east and west.

Berlin, Paris and Liverpool are reported closing higher.

In New York August and September wheat closed 1-4c up. August and September corn 1-2c lower. July oats 1-4c lower.

In Chicago August wheat closed 1 3-8c up. September 1-4c up. August and September corn 1-2c and July oats 1-4c lower.

In Toledo we have had a fair increase in the current business in wheat and at better prices. August was the favorite deal, and on that basis opening sales were 3-8c up with an additional advance of 1-2c, but toward the close the market was weaker, and 1-2c of the gain was lost. July closed 1-2c, August 3-8c better and September 1-8c off. On the call August sold at 79 1-2c to 1-2 and 5-8c and to 1-2c closing at 1-2 and 5-8c. After the call July sold at 80 3-4c to 81c and closed at 80 3-4c. August sold at 79 1-2c to 3-8c and to 80c, and closed at 79 1-2c. September sold at 80 to 80 3-4c and closed at 80 1-2c.

Cash wheat was in much better demand with sales of 50,000 bus. No. 2 soft sold at 81 1-4c to 81c, and closed at 80 3-4c. old at 80 1-2c. No. 3 soft unsettled. About 4 1-2c under No. 2. Wheat and rye at 72c. Sample at 77 1-2c.

Corn—No. 2 at 49 1-2c. No. 3 at 47 1-2c. No. 4 at 40c. No. 3 white at 50 1-2c.

Rye—No. 2 for August at 64c.

Clover seed—October sold at $5.17 1-2 and $5.20 split.

Markets by Telegraph.

London, July 15.—1:00 p. m.—Wheat cargoes off coast at opening, quiet and steady. Maize nothing offering. Wheat cargoes on passage and for shipment firmer; Maize quiet and steady.

Mark Lane—Wheat and maize at opening, weak. English country markets slow. Weather cloudy.

Liverpool, July 15—1:00 p. m.—Wheat market firm, demand fair, holders offer sparingly. American mixed corn firm, demand improving. No. 2 spring wheat (U. THE LAST DAY

Of the National Educational Association Convention.

It Has Been a Most Successful Meeting.

The New Officers Elected—More Good Papers Read and Discussed.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 15.—The Methodist church was well filled with memebrs of the national educational association when that body met there for the fourth and last day's session this morning. After some routine business had been transacted, Hon. E. L. Wolfe, of Jefferson City, Mo., read a paper on "To what exeten can a school system be improved by legislation?"

To What Extent Can a School System be Improved by Legislation?

This paper takes strong ground in favor of such legislation as will secure the best results for the outlay; considers school legislation an unyielding armor which must be modified from time to time as the educational system grows; favors school township organization rather than independent school district organization; the articulation of the common schools, secondary schools and university; a county superintendent appointed by a board of from six to twelve elected by the people, as in towns and cities; a reform of the common school course of study by introducing the natural sciences and history in the lower grades, and cutting down geography and arithmetic; abounding compound numbers, proportion, arithmetical and geometrical progression, and introducing the metric system and a reform of orthography; discusses text-book legislation without taking grounds; favors the distribution by the state educational department among school officers, of plans and specifications for school houses.

The paper recognizes that many of these reforms are not possible now, but favors an educational committee or commission in each state to decide from time to time the practical reform for that state, embody it in the form of a bill and press it by organized effort upon the legislature.

This paper was discussed for half an hour by Supt. D. J. Waller, jr., of Harrisburg, Pa.; Supt. W. H. Anderson, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Supt. Oscar H. Copper, of Galveston, Tex.

Supt. L. H. Harris, of Indianapolis, Ind., then read a paper on "The school and the criminal."

"The School and the Criminal."

"The full treatment of my theme would require an analysis of four heads, viz.: 1. The school as it is, i. e., the actual school. 2. The school as it should be, i. e., the ideal or possible school. 3. The criminal as a product of definite factors. 4. The criminal as a possible subject of remedial agencies. Of this actual school, then, I can only say in passing that it is poor enough to justify almost anything said of it by its enemies; or, at least so it would seem when compared with the ideal school. When seen by itself, however, or compared with the other actual institutions, it assumes a perfection quite gratifying to its friend. At least it needs to be defended against but one of the charges made against it by its traducers, viz., that it is a factor in the production of criminals. A study of the criminal as a product of certain agencies will show us how to make the school the best possible preventive agency against crime. Society creates its own criminals. I mean this in a new sense. In a primitive state there are no criminals because there are no laws; there are no laws because there is no quickened public conscience, out of which the idea of law can grow. As mankind emerges from barbarism the laggard becomes the criminal. He is one whose practices offend the public taste and conscience and who becomes amenable to the formulated expression of the taste and conscience of the upper stratum. As fast as institutional life becomes possible, the force of these institutions is turned upon this same laggard to civilize him, if possible, to a degree which makes companionship with him possible; but if he is not sufficiently developed to be lifted into communion with his self-appointed censors those same institutions are called upon to separate him as a criminal from his fellows. So on throughout the evolution of institutional life, the rising culture of taste and conscience marks off an ever increasing number of actions as beneath the low-water mark of social propriety or the public sense of justice; and so it happens that the country of greatest enlightenment will, in general, exhibit the largest list of criminal offences. Thus the criminal in any civilization is he whose selfishness is in excess. Now the pupil has in him the germ of all that is good, and the negative possibility of all that is evil. The school should nourish the germs of character and starve the negative tendencies to evil. If the child is to be saved at all, it is to be through the development in him of character, and this development comes through action and reaction of teacher and pupil. The first action and reaction of teacher and pupil arise when they first meet, and have reference to the regulation of conduct. But no regulation should be made that is not required in the interest of the pupil; and only in a secondary sense can the teacher or parent be considered in this connection. Each regulation of the school must defend itself on the ground of its necessity to the well-being and normal development of the pupil, and not in any sense on the will or pleasure of the teacher. Indeed, the teacher himself, together with the pupil, is amenable to law and order—not, of course, to the same law and order, because they are different but complementary organs of the school; but there must be no arbitrariness. Three great laws of the school will manifest themselves at once: They are the laws of promptness, regularity and silence."

Discussion followed by Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews, of New York; President Wm. M. Beardshear, of Ames, Iowa, and Principal H. G. Larimer, of Topeka, Kas.

The last paper read was "Personality of the Teacher," by Hon. John G. Harris, of Montgomery, Ala.

At the evening session the new president will be introduced to the association and one of the most successful meetings of the National Educational association will be brought to a close by the singing of the doxology.

The following are the new officers:

President, Albert G. Lane, of Illinois; secretary, R. W. Stevenson, of Kansas; treasurer, J. M. Greenwood, of Missouri; vice presidents, E. H. Cook, New York; L. E. Wolfe, Missouri; G. K. J. Ramsey, Louisiana; J. W. Dickinson, Massachusetts; F. L. Fitzpatrick, Nebraska; C. D. Rodgers, Iowa; W. H. Bartholomew, Kentucky; M. C. Fernald, Maine; E. E. White, Ohio; T. A. Futrall, Arkansas; F. D. Searing, Minnesota. W. L. Steel was chosen director from Illinois.

THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER

The Cause of a Mysterious and Possibly Fatal Shooting.

Danbury, Conn., July 15.—Charles Crosby, one of the wealthiest and best known men in North Salem, Westchester county, N. Y., is dying, as the result of a mysterious shooting. The affair happened Wednesday afternoon, and all the facts were kept secret until it became known that the victim would die. Mr. Crosby was married about seven years ago to a very handsome French woman, of whom he has been extremely jealous. Mrs. Crosby made four attempts on Wednesday to hire a conveyance to take her to Purdy's station, but the villagers' suspicions were aroused and her offer was not accepted. It is also said that the shooting was accidental.

No Money Required of Responsible Parties to Commence Treatmen

DOCTOR OTTMAN,

Formerly of New York, now the Celebrated Examining Physicians of THE FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE, Columbus, Ohio, by request of many friends and patients, have decided to visit Toledo

SATURDAY, JULY 16.

Consultation and Examination Free and Strictly Confidential in the Private Parlor of the Burnett House from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.

The doctors describe the different diseases better than the sick can themselves. It is a wonderful gift for any one to possess. Their diagnostic powers have created wonders throughout the country.

The France Medical and Surgical Institute of Columbus, Ohio, is the only Medical Institute in the State incorporated with a Capital of $300,000.00

DR. OTTMAN, the Celebrated Examining Surgeon of the

FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE,

38 & 40 W. Gay St., one block N. of State House, Columbus, O. Incorporated, 1886. Capital, $300,000.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

☞ Cases and correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE, Nos. 38 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.

The BEE will give the people all of the news and advertise their wants. Having a circulation much greater than any other Toledo daily paper it is much the best advertising medium. It secures quicker and better returns. Consult your interests by advertising in the BEE when you want anything or have anything to sell.

DANCE OF BIRDS IN FLORIDA.

Poetic Description of a Beautiful Scene Witnessed on a Tropical Lake

The sky was an unbroken sea of pale pink—such a pink, says a writer in Kate Field's Washington, as is found only in climes that are fanned by a breath from the tropics. The tall, grim, southern pines surrounded the lake—some long since dead, but time had turned them to a silvery whiteness, while the gray moss hung in long festoons from their grotesque limbs, making the scene weird in spite of the roseate sky.

As we stood for a moment to drink in the soft, silent beauty, a flock of thirteen curlew flew over our heads, lighting here and there among the pines. Some were blue and some pure white. After sitting for a while—as if to smooth each ruffled feather—one flew to the center of the lake, and after slowly flying hither and thither, as if keeping time to some stately melody, another joined the dancer. Back and forth they flew—round and round the lake, flying side by side, then in dreamy movements parting to meet again and float, wing to wing, above the bosom of the water. Soon others joined them; but the soft, sweeping movements were never broken. No fluttering haste of motion, just a dipping, swaying embodiment of grace, and now and then a wild cry from the tree tops as if some voice was urging them on or sending forth a shout of exultation. At last from all sides they gathered and formed a circle, two by two, like happy lovers, save the one curlew who, like a white winged chief, led all the rest. Round and round the lake they flew, then mounting higher, soaring above the tallest pines, southward they hastened on their joyous flight and the forest soon hid them from our gaze.
